

Bureau Asked to Review Burns Creek Dam Plan

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — The reclamation bureau has been asked to consider construction of two Snake river dams downstream from the Palisades project. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R., Idaho, made the request in a letter to Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy.

Smylie Says Jordan Plan Needs Study

By The Associated Press
Gov. Robert E. Smylie says Sen. Len B. Jordan's proposal for a modified Burns creek project deserves careful study as a possible alternative to the often rejected existing plan.

But state Democratic Chairman Lloyd Walker said the Republican senator's proposal is an attempt to recoup political support lost because of his anti-Burns creek stand. He said any plan should include power generation.

Democratic Secretary of State Wendell Williams said Jordan's proposal for a storage dam in combination with a regulating dam appears to be in line with linking of the Idaho Power company, opposing power generation.

Smylie said he has long favored anything that would get at reach of the Snake river. "I wouldn't be prepared to say a senator's proposal was a viable one," said Smylie. "But it is entitled to the most careful consideration and study."

"In concurrence with the public utility party, and about its six platforms, did back and he backed the Burns creek proposal," he said. "If the alternative proposal would do the job it would be welcome. But I think it should be studied first and that's what the senator was doing for."

"It is obvious by now Congressman Harding hasn't been able to get the house to approve the existing plan," said Smylie, adding the proposal, "said Smylie, adding."

"I'm not attempting to be partisan. I am well aware Senator Jordan voted against the proposal in the senate, though Smylie referred to Rep. Ralph Rusk, D., Idaho."

Walker has repeatedly criticized Jordan, saying he opposed the existing plan because it includes federal power.

Light snow fell over most of Magic Valley Wednesday night and Thursday morning, with about an inch reported at Rupert and Burley and a skiff at Jerome and Gooding.

One inch was reported by the weather bureau in Twin Falls and Castleford, with one-half inch at Buhl and only a trace of snow-fall at Fairfield.

Most of the snow had melted by noon.

Hodges has near economy is moving too fast.

PORTLAND, March 26 (AP) — The Portland Area Conference on Industrial Modernization today, told reporters "business is so good in this area that we may be going too fast. We may need the rain."

Hodges added that his proposal for increasing trade between the West and some communist nations was not as popular as he had hoped. "I say sell anything they can eat, drink or smoke," Hodges said.

Treasury Halts Silver Dollar Sale Despite Waiting Buyers

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — The treasury suddenly halted its sale of silver dollars Wednesday after three million cartons of the coins were left on hand — to the consternation of a long line of waiting buyers.

Why? The treasury explained that the big coins remaining in the vaults have special value for collectors and there is no way to sell them.

he made public today, that the proposed 60 million dollar Burns creek project "would not provide full resource development of that stretch of the river which is the best remaining storage site on the upper Snake in Idaho."

The Burns creek dam would generate power and regulate discharges from the Palisades project near the Wyoming border. Opponents contend the cost of the power would be too high to justify the spending of 60 million dollars.

Jordan said the study should determine whether full development in the area could be achieved by construction of:

1. A low Burns creek dam to level the flow of the river for the benefit of downstream irrigators and,

2. Dam "X" between the low Burns creek site and Palisades dam, to store water for irrigation and flood control.

A low Burns creek dam, estimated to cost about four to five million dollars, would store only about 17,000 acre feet of water. This would be adequate for the re-regulating function, Jordan said.

No cost estimate has been made for dam "X," but it probably would be less than the cost of a high Burns creek dam.

Power generation at dam "X," if any, would be only incidental to its primary purpose of storage for irrigation and flood control.

An aide to Dominy said engineers probably had considered some alternate proposals for the upper Snake river, but could not say if there had been study of such a proposal as that advanced by Jordan.

Jordan has opposed a high Burns creek dam on grounds it would provide high-cost power that is not needed in the area.

This project, which would impound 234,000 acre feet of water, has been fought strenuously by coal industry groups in Wyoming where coal is used for power generation.

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — The senate voted swiftly and overwhelmingly today to take up the civil rights bill but ran into a new argument before a second vote on whether to send the bill to committee for 10 days of study.

Sixty-seven senators voted to formally put the bill before the senate. Seventeen southerners voted against the motion but made no further speeches against it. They already had talked for 18 days on it.

The first vote came only 21 minutes after the session started at 9 a.m. But a full-blown battle began over a motion by Sen. Wayne Morse, D., Ore., to send the bill to the southern-led judiciary committee. The senate leadership expected to beat down the Morse move but a much closer vote was expected.

Indications early this afternoon were that the second vote might not come until later this afternoon.

The Negro leaders of widely divergent views watched the proceedings from the senate galleries. One was the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership conference and one of the nation's top integration leaders. The other was Malcolm X, a former spokesman of the Black Muslim sect who has formed his own black national movement.

One melt the dollars down for the silver; (2) Auction them to dealers or collectors; (3) Sell them over the counter on a first-come basis as millions have been sold during the past 10 days.

The run on silver dollars gathered speed last week when word got out that the treasury had opened vaults containing uncalculated silver dollars minted in the 1890s. To coin collectors and dealers these are worth $2 or more.

School's Out

Schools in Twin Falls district No. 411 were to be let out at 3 p.m. Thursday to begin the Easter vacation.

Schools will resume classes Tuesday morning at the regular time. St. Edward's Catholic school was let out at 3 p.m. Wednesday for the Easter vacation and will resume classes Tuesday morning.

Borah Sought to Keep U.S. From War

MOSCOW, March 26 (AP) — The late Sen. William E. Borah was an isolationist only in that "he sought to isolate America from war," Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, said today in a lecture at the University of Idaho sponsored by the William E. Borah foundation. "Borah argued that, in terms of trade, Americans had always been internationalists and always would be," Church said in his prepared remarks. "When he asked for a world-wide economic conference in 1923 he denied that he was an isolationist, and claimed that withdrawal was not a Republican policy. His party, he said, had consistently favored participation in foreign negotiations affecting American interests, and had done much to develop peaceful arbitration as a method of settling disputes."

Church, who is now a member of the foreign relations committee on which Borah served for many years, said the famed "Lion of Idaho" is remembered for incidents in which he was proved wrong, rather than the more numerous times in which he was right.

"I have been constantly attracted, not to those views of his which are now irrelevant," Church said, "but to those premises he held so strongly which still remain applicable to our life and times."

"I think of his reluctance to use force, his anti-imperialism and his tolerance for diversity in the world at large."

"In today's world, where we have permitted ourselves to become so massively involved that we regard every little country's frontier, no matter how remote, as our responsibility, do we not wonder whether we haven't extended our commitments beyond our capacity to fulfill?"

"Who now would argue that Borah was wrong in attempting to find a substitute for force in the settlement of disputes between nations? His method may have been faulty, but his instinct against the folly of war was true."

"Borah was groping for a way to eliminate war. In this, he was not behind his times, but ahead of them."

Blood Drive At Wendell Misses Quota

WENDELL, March 26 — The 100-pint quota for the Wendell blood drive was missed by only three pints. There were 102 persons who attended the drawing at the American Legion hall, and 97 pints were donated. Five persons were rejected.

The 26 replacement pints donated for Mrs. Arnold Claiborn, Gooding, who was burned over 58 per cent of her body in a gasoline explosion Aug. 25 and who is a patient at Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

Sixty-one pints were donated as replacements for 11 other persons who benefitted from the blood bank in emergencies.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jasper each received their three-gallon pins, according to Mrs. Harold Holsinger, Red Cross blood bank chairman for Wendell. Eight donors who received one-gallon pins were Mrs. Mary Gill, Mrs. Fenton Hayes, Mrs. Bernice Gilbert, Mrs. Roland Close, Elwyn Behrens, M. M. Beck, Nelson King and Edward Johnson.

Attending physicians were Dr. Harold Holsinger and Dr. M. E. Scheel. Registered nurses were Mrs. Veronica Mauk, Mrs. Dorothy Alexander, Mrs. Richard Overfield and Mrs. James Gunnung. Nurses aides were Mrs. Ray Ruby, Mrs. W. W. Kelley, Mrs. M. Gates and Mrs. Fenton Hayes.

Ugly Bug

DETROIT, N.Y. March 26 (AP) — A full-scale wooden model of America's moonship was put on display today and it looks like an ugly bug.

It is designed to carry two astronauts to a landing on the moon for a 24-hour visit there, and then return to a mother ship circling the moon for the voyage back to Earth.

Officials of the national aeronautics and space administration and half a dozen astronauts, some of whom may be future pilots, have been checking the design and systems for the moonship for several days.

U. S. Shifts Ambassadors On Cyprus

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — The United States is shifting ambassadors on troubled Cyprus, giving the post to a career diplomat who was sent there without title earlier this year.

George Reedy, White House press secretary, announced the resignation of Ambassador Frazer Wilkins who has been in Nicosia for the past three and one-half years.

Wilkins will be succeeded by Taylor G. Belcher, who was sent to Cyprus after violence between Greek and Turkish Cypriots erupted earlier this year.

Reedy said he could provide no explanation for the change. He said Wilkins "is merely being recalled for reassignment."

New Kennedy Half-Dollars About Gone

The new Kennedy half-dollars have been going at a steady rate, officials at the three Twin Falls banks report. The half-dollars were received in Twin Falls Wednesday morning.

"They have been going like hot-cakes," reported Neil Garrison, assistant cashier at the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company.

Garrison said the bank has about 400 half-dollars left at closing time Wednesday, but he said he does not expect any to be left at the end of the day Thursday.

W. H. Miller, assistant cashier at Fidelity National bank, said their supply has been going "real fast." He reported about two-thirds of the supply was gone by closing time Wednesday.

Russell Hall, assistant cashier at the First Security Bank of Twin Falls, said their supply was going fast. He said that the number of half-dollars allowed per person depends upon the circumstances.

It was reported by Garrison and Miller they will allow only two half-dollars per person. All three banks expect more shipments of the new half-dollars later.

Latah Ousts T.F. as Top Wheat Raiser

BOISE, March 26 (AP) — Latah county displaced Twin Falls county as Idaho's No. 1 wheat producer for 1963, the U. S. department of agriculture reported Wednesday. Twin Falls was the top producer in 1962.

The 1963 figures listed Latah's production as 2,822,500 bushels with Bonneville county ranking second with 2,495,200. Nez Perce county was third with 2,378,400 bushels. Elmore county, fourth, 2,216,400, and Idaho county, fifth, 2,022,900.

Twin Falls county, which produced 2,702,600 bushels in 1962, turned out 1,810,300 in 1963.

Donald Youtz, Twin Falls county extension agent, said Wednesday evening the market decrease in production from 1962 to 1963 was primarily due to stripe rust. At $1.80 a bushel, Youtz noted, the loss in production resulted in a loss of about 1.5 million dollars.

Power county led in acreage harvested in both years, cutting wheat from 75,700 acres in 1962 and from 85,200 acres in 1963.

Twin Falls had the best 1962 yield, a whopping 75.7 bushels per acre, but Owyhee was first in 1963, with 60.1 bushels. Twin Falls averaged for 1963 fell to 43.8 bushels per acre.

Yields per acre exceeded 70 bushels per acre in four counties in 1962. In addition to Twin Falls, they were Jerome, with 75.2; Owyhee, 73.5, and Canyon, 73.1.

Another Wheat Sale to Russia Is Authorized

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP) — The commerce department has authorized the sale of another $5,155,720 worth of U. S. wheat to Russia.

Insurance of the export license to an unidentified firm yesterday means the government has authorized the sale of 316.1 million dollars worth of wheat to the Soviet Union since the program began.

It was reported by Garrison and Miller they will allow only two half-dollars per person. All three banks expect more shipments of the new half-dollars later.

Burley Man Put on Spud, Onion Group

BOISE, March 26 (AP) — Reappointment of two new members of the Idaho potato and onion commission was announced today by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

Norbert Brinkman, Idaho Falls, was reappointed as grower representative for a term of three years beginning July 1.

New members, also named for three-year terms beginning July 1, are Leo Christensen, Shalloy, for the shippers, and Donald S. Robertson, Burley, for the processors.

State law requires the governor to make the selections from among nominees submitted by each of the three groups — growers, shippers and processors.

Christensen replaces Harvey Schwendman, St. Anthony, and Robertson succeeds R. Starr Farish, Caldwell, neither of whom was nominated this year.

Big Crowds Demonstrate In Korea

SEOUL, Korea, March 26 (UPI) — More than 60,000 students today staged massive protest demonstrations against South Korean-Japanese normalization talks for the third consecutive day in defiance of warnings from President Park Chung Hee. There were no reports of major violence in Seoul and 10 other cities where students marched through the streets and shouted slogans against the current talks in Tokyo. Opposition politicians also staged demonstrations in Seoul. It was the biggest turnout of students since the student-led riots of April 1960 which culminated in the overthrow of the Syngman Rhee regime.

The protests continued despite an appeal from Park coupled with a warning of new counter-measures if his plea was ignored. In a taped record broadcast to the nation over the government and commercial radio networks, Park said that if the demonstrations continued "the government cannot help but take new counter-measures." He did not explain further.

In Seoul, more than 30,000 high school and university students marched through downtown streets for seven hours. Some attempted to march on the presidential mansion, others tore down and burned Japanese language posters and staged other anti-Japanese demonstrations.

The government mobilized about 1,000 troops to guard the presidential residence and other government buildings. Barbed wire barricades were erected around the buildings. An attempt by students to break through the cordon was blocked with minor scuffling.

Jury Acquits T.F. Man in Robbery Case

Donald W. Visser, 160 Sidney drive, was found innocent of charges of robbery during a criminal jury trial Monday in district court.

Visser was charged with taking $700 from Stanley Kirk, 126 Bell street, last Oct. 18, in Twin Falls.

He was bound over to district court Dec. 2, after waiving preliminary hearing before Police Judge Dale J. Adamson.

Witnesses for the state were Leland Rosenblatt, Stanley Kirk, Wayne K. Kennedy, James E. Standley and Gary Bates.

Jurors were Harriet Denton, Dean Vickers, Ruth McDonough, Mrs. J. Wayne King, G. H. Parkins, Jack Cato, William G. Crippen, Mrs. David Barry, Mrs. D. L. Brown, Mr. W. A. Pohlman, Mrs. Martin J. Knapp and Howard C. Tippen.

Grange Urges Tax Change In Boise Talk

BOISE, March 26 (U.P.)—The manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce says Idaho needs a sales tax so it can reduce other taxes and provide a more attractive climate for industry.

William Grange, addressing the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce, said the state's economic growth will be restricted without the tax change.

"Idaho should have, and the time is long since past, a sales tax with income and property tax relief," he said. "A very effective wall has been built around the state with its anti-patch patch on patch tax system."

Grange said it might be wise for Idaho to have a sales tax to offset what he described as a geographic disadvantage in attracting industry.

Whisky Is Taken From Buhl Store

BUHL, March 26—The state liquor store at Buhl was burglarized early this morning, Police Chief Charles Burbank reports. He said four cases of whisky, valued at $400, were stolen.

Entry was gained by forcing open the back door of the store. Nothing else appears to be missing, officers said. Chief Burbank said he believes the break-in was discovered within a half-hour after it happened.

City Policeman Eugene Herxinger discovered the break-in on a routine patrol about 3 a.m. Thursday. He reported he had noticed on an earlier check a car parked just north of the liquor store with two men apparently asleep inside.

When he discovered the break-in he noticed the car was gone. Officers are continuing their investigation.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY—Partial clearing today and tonight. Westerly winds occasionally 25-35 miles per hour today, diminishing tonight. Increasing cloudiness again Friday, with chance for rain or snow again by Friday night. Warmer this afternoon and Friday night. Today 38-47, Friday 42-52; lows tonight in 20s, except 5-15 over Camas prairie. Outlook is for precipitation at 8 a.m.: 30 at Jeune, 33 at T. F. weather bureau with 82 per cent humidity, 34 at T. F. weather bureau with 84 per cent humidity, 33 at Rupert, 18 at Fairfield, 30 at Buhl, 30 at Castleford; at noon, 38 at T. F. weather bureau with 54 per cent humidity. Barometer: 30.09.

SYNOPSIS AND AGRICULTURAL SUMMARY
A touch of winter in the form of light snow returned to these valleys during the night as precipitation spread across the valleys of southern Idaho. In the southeastern valleys some new snow covered the ground early this morning.

Unstable air still covers much of southern Idaho and some snowshowers will be possible during the remainder of the day over the mountains of southeastern Idaho but a clearing trend is to develop. Slightly cooler weather will accompany the clearing tonight. The intermountain region remains in the path of a northwesterly flow of air aloft and with the next Pacific storm at the surface now in the Gulf of Alaska, the area can expect increasing cloudiness and more rain and snow Friday afternoon and night. Considerable cloudiness with possible scattered showers make up the outlook for Saturday over much of southern Idaho.

Temperatures during the day will show some warming in southern valleys today and tomorrow. Maximum temperatures will range in the 30s and 40s today and from the mid 30s into the 50s on Friday. Low temperatures tonight will lower to 5 to 10 above zero in Camas prairie and in the 20s to low 30s elsewhere in Magic Valley.

Farm work continues to be delayed. The present weather maps fail to give any hope of any prolonged clearing in the immediate future.

He was born July 1, 1900, at Erda, Utah, coming to Twin Falls about 34 years ago from Utah. He worked as a farm laborer.

Surviving is one sister, Mrs. May Dietzer, Salt Lake City.

Gravestone services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Twin Falls cemetery under direction of Reynolds funeral home.

Jacksonville Negro Riots Quiet Down

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 25 (U.P.)—One of the fiercest bands of Negro youth still operating in Jacksonville, Fla., was reported to have been broken up by police Wednesday.

The city generally quieted down after two violent days. A biracial committee came into being with the aim of restoring peace.

The committee was formed with the sanction of Mayor Haydon Burns but it still was not an official arm of city government.

The white man who reported he was attacked by Negroes, Lester Phillips, 53, was in serious condition.

Patrolman M. P. Garris said Phillips was attacked by a group of 12 to 15 teen-age Negroes, who hurled a brick and struck him in the forehead.

"His condition is bad," said a nurse in the emergency room at St. Luke's hospital.

"He has a probable skull fracture and a jagged laceration about three inches long in the forehead," she said.

The nurse said Phillips told her he was attacked by Negroes in a fringe area of white and Negro residences.

The violence came as this port city began to calm after one killing, a score of injuries and dozens of acts of vandalism Monday and Tuesday.

President Johnson in Washington and Gov. Farris Bryant in Tallahassee took note of the troubles here but decided no federal or state action was warranted.

Good Friday
Services Due
For Gooding
The Gooding Ministerial association will sponsor Union Good Friday services at 8 p.m. Friday at the Methodist church.

The Rev. Lawrence L. Layton, president of the Gooding Ministerial association and pastor of the First Baptist church, will preach the sermon.

The Methodist church choir will provide the music. Churches cooperating in the program are the Episcopal, Baptist, Christian, Assembly of God and Methodist.

The Methodist church will serve holy communion at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Fellowship hall.

The Rev. Dwight E. Wilcher points out that this is the day in Holy week observed as the day of the institution of the sacrament of the Lord's supper.

There will be a candlelight communion service followed by an adaptation of an ancient service of the church known as the "Office of the Tenebrae" or "The Office of Darkness."

The Rev. Mr. Wilcher will speak Easter Sunday on "God's Call Takes Form."

The Rev. Harold Hake of the Christian church said no special services are planned for this week other than the regular church services at 11 a.m. Sunday and the participation in the Good Friday services.

The Baptist young people will sponsor, in conjunction with young people of other churches, a sunrise service at 6:30 a.m. at the airport hill. The Rev. Lowell Henske of the Nazarene church will be the speaker and there will be special music.

After the services there will be a breakfast at the Minard Mesa home, 1030 Montana street, for all young people. Anyone interested in the sunrise service is invited.

At 8:30 p.m. the BYF will hold a special program at the church. The evening service will begin at 7:30 p.m. The regular Sunday morning service at 11 a.m. will feature a special number by the choir, "Glad Easter Morn," and the Rev. Mr. Layton will speak on "More Than an Appearance."

Britain Donates
Plot for Kennedy
Memorial Site
LONDON, March 26 (U.P.)—Britain announced Wednesday it is giving an acre of its most historic soil—the Magna Carta meadow at Runnymede—to the United States for a memorial to the late John F. Kennedy.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home told the House of Commons the assassinated president will be further honored by a scholarship fund to send British students to Harvard-Kennedy's alma mater—and to Radcliffe college and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Runnymede is a government-owned meadow of about 100 acres, 25 miles west of London, where a group of barons forced King John to sign the Magna Carta June 15, 1215. The charter became the foundation of English political and personal liberties.

Christmas Rush
BUFFALO, N. Y., March 26 (U.P.)—The postoffice moved swiftly Wednesday to dispatch approximately 550 parcels that lay unnoticed for nearly three months in a truck-trailer leased for the Christmas rush.

The parcels, bagged in 100 sacks, were found Tuesday when the trailer's owner opened the rear doors to prepare it for sale.

A postoffice spokesman said the trailer had been taken to a railroad terminal New Year's eve, where the packages were to have been put on trains. He said a clerk erroneously had checked off the trailer as unloaded, and it was hauled to a lot and put out of service.

Mrs. Glenn Is Honored at Rites
KIMBERLY, March 26—Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Malena Glenn were conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Kimberly LDS church.

Charles Barnes read the obituary and Ted Crockett and Russell Jensen were speakers. Soloist was George Bennett. Mrs. Ruth Stanger was organist. Floyd Stanger gave the benediction.

Pallbearers were Kent Darrington, Ivan Darrington, Carl Whitaker, Ted Whitaker, Dale Whitaker and Gerald Glenn.

Final rites were held at Twin Falls cemetery.

Tornado Hits Two Schools In Missouri

CENTERVILLE, Mo., March 26 (U.P.)—A tornado destroyed two small schools Wednesday, injuring 13 students and a teacher at one as it slashed through three southeast Missouri counties. No deaths were reported.

The twister, which touched down first in this Reynolds county seat, moved on to neighboring Wayne county where it hit the school in tiny Clubb. Two of the children injured were reported in serious but not critical condition.

Teacher Will Meador and the other 11 students were not believed badly hurt. All were taken to hospitals in Poplar Bluff and Fredericktown, Mo., in the area.

Twenty-four children in another schoolhouse, at Garwood, also in Reynolds county, escaped injury although the school was blown down around them.

The twister caused considerable property damage but no reported injuries when it hit Centerville.

Then it skipped southeast to Silva, Wayne county, where at least three buildings were toppled. No injuries were reported at Silva.

Torrential rains accompanied by sleet and hail preceded and followed the tornado.

Air Service

The governor's committee on air service at 10 a.m. April 10 at the Ponderosa Inn in the Conference room. Chamber officials and anyone interested in improved air service throughout the state is invited. Airline and CAB representatives will not be present.

The board agreed to support Gov. Robert E. Smylie in his recent stand to insist on improved air service in Idaho.

Mayor Crouch read a letter from Winona, Minn., asking support in its attempt of the past few years for better service from airlines. The letter stated that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D. Minn., has worked with them and will continue his efforts on behalf of more efficient air service.

The chamber agreed to support the Winona group and to write Idaho's congressman in Washington, D.C., asking their aid in the matter.

Mayor Crouch told of extensive study made by Art Solomon, former city councilman, of the geographical location of Burley for air service. Crouch reported that Solomon produced maps and all pertinent information several years ago proving that Burley's location could be the hub of air service to all major points in the West. He added that the trucking industry has proved this.

West Coast used to give us good service, and when they did our loadings were as impressive as any on their route. But now they don't connect with anything out of Burley, commented the mayor.

Many members told of experiences of being bumped or left stranded for hours at distant airports, without advance notice, when they could have driven their automobiles in a shorter time.

French Say Solon's Talk Is 'Gaullism'

PARIS, March 26 (U.P.)—French officials today hailed as "pure Gaullism" yesterday's statement by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D. Ark., chairman of the U.S. senate foreign relations committee, that the United States must accept the fact that communist-ruled China is the only true China.

There was no official French government comment. The French foreign office noted that the U.S. state department had hastened to explain that Fulbright spoke only for himself, not for the U.S. government.

But French government sources expressed gratification at his remarks, which they said appeared to back French President Charles de Gaulle's assertion that the Peking regime is the only true Chinese government.

They described his statement as "most interesting" and said that in some points it appeared to be "pure Gaullism."

French sources said Fulbright's call for abandonment of the Cuban blockade also coincided with French policy.

Hitherto Fulbright had never been regarded here as particularly pro-de Gaulle in his ideas.

Injunction Is Issued Against Twin Falls Firm

BOISE, March 26 (U.P.)—U.S. District Judge Chase A. Clark approved a permanent injunction Wednesday to halt a Twin Falls firm from hauling goods in interstate commerce.

The federal government asked the injunction against Carl W. Stoltenberg and the Kregel machine company to argue that it carried metal to places in Idaho, Nebraska, Colorado and Arkansas without a permit from the interstate commerce commission.

The U.S. attorney told the judge attorneys for the firm had consented to the permanent injunction. Judge Clark ordered it prepared.

Infant Girl Dies

Tina Mabel Butler, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romey Butler, 617 Blue Lakes boulevard, died Wednesday at Magic Valley Memorial hospital.

She was born April 17, 1963. Surviving besides her parents, are a sister, Ronnie Butler; paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butler, all of Twin Falls, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hazelton.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Reynolds funeral chapel by the Rev. John Chandler. Rites will be held at Twin Falls cemetery.

Improvement District Is Made at Buhl

BUHL, March 26—An ordinance was adopted setting up local sewer improvement district No. 3 in Gray's first addition when the Buhl city council met in special session Tuesday night. Sealed bids are being called for this project with bids to be opened 8 p.m. April 7.

The project calls for bidders to furnish materials and appurtenances for the construction and installation of eight-inch concrete sewer extension and manholes. All interested bidders may obtain plans, specifications and other contract documents and details from the city clerk's office at the city hall for a deposit fee of $15.

William Bosworth, chairman of the local airport committee, reported to the council on his recent meeting with Chet Moulton, Boise, Idaho aeronautics director, relative to improving the local airport. He noted the state department consented to share expenses with the city of Buhl for its improvement.

Plans call for the general clean-up of the airport area to include removing weeds, planting grass seed, fertilization, mowing, and upkeep, rodent control, installing landing lights, tie downs and a time clock to automatically turn the lights on.

Lawrence Fawcett was reappointed dog catcher and Joyce Loos was hired to conduct a door-to-door sale of dog licenses in the city. Ordinance 469 was adopted setting the annual appropriations covering the city's 1964 budget.

Council members voted to recommend Harry Jennings to the Twin Falls county commissioners for the appointment of resident justice of the peace for the city of Buhl. He will assume his duties as soon as the appointment is made by the county commissioners. In addition to serving as justice of the peace Jennings also will serve as police judge.

Safeway store and Watson's dairy were granted a milk license for 1964.

The resignation of Troy Kirkland, fire chief and gas inspector, was accepted officially by the council. Charles Goughley was appointed to fill the gas inspector position. It was reported several applications for fire chief have been received and an appointment will be announced soon.

Jess Eastman was authorized to lease 200 shares of the city's water stock in the Twin Falls Canal company which will net the city $10 per share for the 1964 year.

It was voted that the city and the Chamber of Commerce jointly purchase $400 worth of fireworks for the annual Fourth of July display. Robert Peterson, councilman, was appointed to work with the chamber in making the fireworks display selections.

Correspondence was read from M. W. Lotzpelch, state highway department, who has rejected the city's request on changing the speed limit from 50 to 35 miles per hour on the east and west approaches along highway 30 into Buhl.

Lotzpelch, however, in the letter, pointed out the state department of highways will widen the highway on both approaches into the city approximately four feet on both shoulders to provide a walk area for pedestrians.

Reasons for not reducing the speed limit, pointed out in the letter, were that speed studies showed it would be practically impossible to enforce and hold traffic to the 35-mile speed; observations of pedestrian traffic showed actually very few walking along the highway; that a posted 35-mile zone would give pedestrians a false feeling of security for their safety which would not be realistic, as traffic would continue to travel at the present speed of 50 miles an hour.

The over-all effect of a lower limit would sharply increase excessive speeds as well as unusual low ones. This would increase the frequency of passing maneuvers and create a more hazardous and less desirable traffic flow pattern, the highway department added.

Kentucky Colonel Saved by His 'Commission'

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—If it hadn't been for his Kentucky colonel commission, Edmond R. Schlesinger might still be stranded in Canada.

Schlesinger, a native of Austria, was vacationing near Canada when he decided to cross the border. On the return trip, the border guard requested Schlesinger's citizenship papers.

He had forgotten them, but pulled out his driver's license, insurance papers and various membership cards.

None satisfied the guard until Schlesinger displayed his identification as a Kentucky colonel.

"Oh," the guard sighed, "now that's okay. You may proceed."

Potato Growers in Minidoka Reject Contract From Simplot's at Meeting

RUPERT, March 26—The potato contract proposed by the J. R. Simplot company was unanimously rejected during an open meeting Tuesday evening at the courthouse in Rupert, according to officials of district six of the Idaho Potato Growing and Marketing association.

Philip Bare, chairman of the local district, reported more than 100 potato growers in the district met to discuss the contract and other potato issues at the meeting.

According to Bare, the contract offered this year by Simplot would pay $1.25 for No. 1 potatoes and 60 cents per hundredweight for all usable tubers, with a tare incentive. It was the opinion of the growers that this contract would not meet cost of production for the average grower in this area.

Bare said it was reported potato growers in Treasure Valley had been offered and had accepted a contract with Simplot's whereby they would receive $1.23 for all usable tubers with 1.3 cent up for each percentage point over 50 per cent of No. 1 potatoes and one cent up for 25 per cent of 10 ounce on No. 1 and No. 2 potatoes.

It was noted this is virtually the same contract that growers in this area have been asking for. "Simple arithmetic gives the reason the potato growers rejected the contract," Bare said. "You cannot stay in business unless you make a profit. It is the feeling of the growers that there is no profit in the contract offered by Simplot."

Bare explained, "Unless we can get a contract that the average grower can make a profit on we would be doing a disservice to all potato growers to sign any contract. The economy of this district depends on potato prices, and to accept a below-cost production contract would downgrade the entire economy."

In referring to Treasure Valley growers, Bare stressed that it was the feeling of the group attending the meeting that the Magic Valley area grows just as good potatoes as any area in the state. Yet the contract offered in district six is about 15 to 25 cents a hundredweight lower than the contract offered and accepted by the potato growers in Treasure Valley, he declared.

Clarence White, state director for crop reports services in Idaho, explained how the agency functions. He gave a preliminary estimate on intended 1964 plantings in Idaho, which showed six to seven per cent reduction on five-year average of potatoes.

Joe Houska, Hazelton, reported on potato legislation and noted the changes made in the senate agriculture committee on the acreage control bill.

Sugar Beet Increase Not Planned

WASHINGTON, March 26—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman Wednesday assured house members whose districts contain sugar cane refineries that the administration has no present recommendation for increased sugar beet allotments.

Freeman went to a Capitol meeting to hear protest proposals by congressmen from some sugar beet growing areas that the basic sugar beet quota be raised by 750,000 tons, or about 28 per cent of the present allotment.

"There is no such proposal by the department or the administration," Freeman said.

In any case, Freeman reminded the representatives—largely from Massachusetts, New York, Philadelphia, Maryland, California and Texas—quota allotments as between foreign and domestic cane and domestic sugar beet growers are fixed by congress, not the agriculture department.

"The department may make recommendations," Freeman said, "but congress makes the allotments. I don't know what the administration's recommendations may be in the future as between beet and cane sugar quotas, but in any case it is up to you. At present time we have no major recommendations before congress."

The meeting was called by Rep. Thomas J. O'Neill, D., Mass., whose district has two refineries for cane sugar.

O'Neill told Freeman that he and other representatives of port cities with cane refineries "will vigorously oppose any increase in sugar beet quotas when the foreign supply provisions of the sugar act are reviewed at this session."

He said any increase in the sugar beet quota would have to be at the expense of foreign suppliers and would be disastrous to thousands of port and refinery workers at U. S. import cities where such sugar is refined.

NEW YORK, March 26—A run on the U.S. treasury's silver dollars, plus heavy demand for the new Kennedy half-dollars, may help send the metal's price still higher. Industrial users here have been paying the full legal monetary value of $1.293 an ounce for some time. In London the spot price is $1.302 an ounce.

And now traders, influenced by the new demand for silver coins, are bidding silver future contracts well above the monetary value.

The cartwheel contains .77 of an ounce of silver. At $1.29 an ounce this makes the silver in a metal dollar worth $1 in the metal market.

The price has climbed from 91.8 cents an ounce in 1961 entirely because worldwide demand for coinage, electronic and other industrial uses, has been running well above world production. The U.S. treasury's once huge store has dropped sharply.

Now the United States is slowly redeeming outstanding silver certificates—redeemable in silver dollars—to be replaced by federal reserve notes. The treasury wants to use the rest of its fast dwindling hoard of the metal for minting smaller coins. The demand for them has been growing smartly, with spot shortages in various regions from time to time.

The run on silver dollars at the treasury was sparked by the dwindling supply of the cartwheels, no longer minted. A bill to require the treasury to resume such coinage was turned down.

Tuesday in the house. Silver dollars are used largely in the West, but are now being prized elsewhere.

Demand for smaller silver coins is up markedly because of the increase in vending machines, an din turnstiles and in various other slot devices. Electronics, and lately space age instruments, call for more and more of the metal.

An affluent society is buying more silver household and jewelry items.

In the United States production of silver is now down slightly to 35 million ounces a year. Despite higher prices here, imports also are off and now run around 30 million ounces a year.

The treasury has been selling silver to industrial users at the monetary value of $1.293 an ounce by redeeming silver certificates for bullion.

Silver counts for a little more than one per cent of our money supply, the Chase Manhattan bank, New York, reports today in its bimonthly review. It holds that silver "could scarcely be an instrument of monetary policy." Its thesis is that "the strength of our money supply rests, not on the amount of metal in stock, but on confidence that a stable relation will be maintained between money and the output of goods and services in the economy."

Money Recovered
CHANDLER, Ariz. (AP)—A bank bag containing an estimated $10,000 was missing for more than 24 hours before it was found in the trunk of a police car.

Police said the bag was one of four put in the trunk when officers accompanied bank employees on a currency pickup from the Federal Reserve Bank of Los Angeles.

Man Arrested For Railway Conspiracy

MIAMI, Fla., March 26—The FBI said it arrested a fourth man Wednesday and charged him with trying to blow up a Florida East Coast railway train March 12.

He was identified as John Katsikos, 40, a native of Cleveland, O., who worked on the railroad for 10 years as a car inspector.

Three other men were arrested March 12 and 13. Two were charged with trying to blow up an FEC train March 12. The third was charged with conspiracy. All were former FEC employees.

The FBI said Katsikos, married and the father of four children, was also charged with conspiracy.

Some 1,300 nonoperating union men walked off the road Jan. 23, 1963 in a wage dispute. Since then, there have been more than 200 acts of violence along its Miami-to-Jacksonville tracks.

The men arrested previously were John Wesley Davis, 32, of Port St. Lucie; Joseph Leo Veder, 32, of Miami and Hugh Winn, 56, of Miami.

Winn was charged with conspiracy. The other two were arrested after an 18-man FBI stakeout at an FEC trestle in Indian River county on March 12. The FBI said they wired 15 sticks of dynamite to explode when a train passed.

Katsikos was charged with placing explosives on the same tracks that night.

Schlesinger, a native of Austria, was vacationing near Canada when he decided to cross the border. On the return trip, the border guard requested Schlesinger's citizenship papers.

He had forgotten them, but pulled out his driver's license, insurance papers and various membership cards.

None satisfied the guard until Schlesinger displayed his identification as a Kentucky colonel.

"Oh," the guard sighed, "now that's okay. You may proceed."

Rupert Lists Winners for Derby Race

RUPERT, March 26—Greg Cameron, Larry Smith and Bob Isaak were winners in the Pine-wood derby held at the Methodist Fellowship hall Monday night for Cub Scouts of pack 46.

The three winners of pack 46 will compete in the run-off for all parts of Minidoka county later in the spring.

Winners in den one were Cameron, first, and Isaak, second; den two, Dave Jones, first, and Douglas Jones, second; den four, Smith, first, and George Lankford, second.

Assisting with the derby were Pack Chairman Don Rasmussen at the starting gate; Jim Isaak, pack treasurer, registration and keeping track of races, and Bob Jones, final gate judge.

Official weighin judge was Don Toolson.

Mrs. Richard Reynolds and Mrs. Keith Clayton were initiated as den mothers. New Cub Scouts include Jack Clayton and Charles Clayton, Matt Reynolds, David Jones and Douglass Jones, Michael Reynolds, Scott Morehouse and Tim Shockey.

All new Cub Scouts received their bobcat badges and Tim Thompson and Billy Hedrick received wolf badges.

Lynda Bird

NEW YORK, March 26—The President's oldest daughter, Lynda Bird, 20, and her college school chum, Marie-Louise Smith, 19, are here on a three-day spring vacation, featuring theater-going.

The two girls, who share a White House room together, planned to see three Broadway shows on their trip—musicals "Hello, Dolly," and "110 in the Shade," and a comedy, "Barefoot in the Park."

National Problem

The U.S. navy's war on "shoddy" products of American industry has a good deal of merit. The navy's objection to poor workmanship and faulty products stems from the loss of the submarine Thresher. The probable cause of the submarine tragedy has been pinpointed as faulty piping. Fortunately such drastic and tragic consequences don't result from all poor workmanship and shoddy products. Although the navy has expressed concern and appears determined to do something about it, the problem is one that should concern every American.

The scope of the problem is illustrated in a report by Rear Adm. Charles A. Curtze, deputy chief of the navy bureau of ships. He said an intensive survey of equipment trouble in one group of ships in one year showed more than 9,000 items supplied by 270 manufacturers were found deficient.

Everyone who ever purchased a new car or some sort of appliance faulty in some respect can understand the navy problem.

Perhaps Admiral Curtze has a logical explanation. He says, "We've got a bit sloppy as an industrial nation, (with) a tendency to engineer price or profit and not value."

Admiral Curtze may be correct in his analysis, yet there also is a marked tendency on the part of consumers to shop for the cheaper foreign-made article. Many consumers are not so concerned with value as they are with low cost. In this respect, the consumer must accept his responsibility in forcing the American manufacturer to strive for a lower price to meet competition from abroad. Value has to suffer and workmanship also takes a beating in the process.

Admiral Curtze says the navy will work on its contributions in the form of more conservative design and overcoming laxness in inspection and specifications.

Perhaps the navy effort will spark more attention to the problem all up and down the line, from the manufacturer to the consumer. In these days of world trade there's reason to believe no industrial nation can afford to become sloppy or turn out shoddy products.

NO END IN SIGHT

Racial rioting in Jacksonville, Fla., may be the prelude to another summer of violence in the move toward integration. There may be more demonstrations while the senate debates the civil rights bill. Even if the civil rights bill is approved and signed, it will not put an end to rioting and violence. Laws may result in equal treatment at the polling places and laws may force stores and cafes to serve persons of all races. But laws will never bring an end to racial prejudice that has existed for generations.

Perhaps the nation faces another summer of violence and bloodshed, with the rioting in Florida just an indication of what can be expected. If debates on the civil rights bill are prolonged, those who favor integration and the bill might try to press the issue through demonstrations. Such ill-advised pressure can only result in hurting those who get involved. Civil rights bill or no civil rights bill, there's no end in sight now for violence over U.S. racial problems.

INDIVIDUAL THREAT

Men in public life face a real threat from individuals they never know. It couldn't have been illustrated any better than when the mentally deranged Japanese youth stabbed the U.S. ambassador to Japan. And what was the reason for such an attack? The knife-wielder was attracted to attention by his one-man campaign to get help for near-sighted women! It would be difficult to imagine any issue or project that would be of less interest to an ambassador.

The world is full of such individuals. No one can know what goes on in their warped and twisted minds and there's no explanation of how or why they will react to a given set of circumstances. It's extremely fortunate the ambassador was not killed.

In addition to posing a definite threat to men in public life, these abnormal persons must be considered a risk to the peace and welfare of their own countries. Certainly in the case of the ambassador stabbing, the assailant embarrassed his own nation.

What would have happened if the Russian ambassador had been killed instead of another envoy being just wounded? Or what would happen if some abnormal person assassinated a visiting diplomat or royalty? An assassination in Sarajevo, Bosnia, back on June 28, 1914, was the immediate cause of World War I. In a world full of stresses, it might not take such a sensational act to provide the trigger.

The U.S. may never know for certain, but Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of shooting President Kennedy, could have been no less or no more motivated than Norikazu Shiotani who stabbed the American ambassador in Japan.

There must be some way to identify and guard against abnormal individuals.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, March 26—In a misspent lifetime, sprinkled with attacks of measles, gout and assorted broken bones, I have encountered no fools in the medical profession, and so I am confused by the American Medical Society's stand with the tobacco industry on the subject of smoking.

Although a government report has stated that smoking can and does cause cancer, the AMA says there's no need to remind the public of this hazard by including a warning in the fine print on a cigarette package. In effect, the AMA's premise is that since everybody knows the weed can be dangerous such a warning label is unnecessary.

DON'T WORRY KIDS?—This curious position was outlined in a letter from the AMA to the federal trade commission shortly after the AMA had okayed a pledge from six tobacco companies to spend 10 million dollars in the next five years researching the effects of smoking on health. In other words, AMA is worried but does not share that worry with the kid buying his first pack of cigarettes.

Dr. F. J. L. Blasingame, executive vice president of AMA, put it this way in the letter to the FTC: "The health hazards of excessive smoking have been well-publicized for more than 10 years and are common knowledge."

REDUCTO AD ABSURDUM—How now, Dr. Blasingame? Are we to rip the "poison" labels off containers of arsenic because it is "common knowledge" arsenic can kill? Everybody has at least one bottle of medicine in his bathroom cabinet which carries a label warning of excessive dosages. A father does not depend on "common knowledge" to educate his son about the hazards of carrying and using firearms when he buys the sprout a squirrel gun. Our highways are liberally sprinkled with "labels" warning the motorist that his car can be a lethal weapon.

No sir, Dr. Blasingame, in this one I have to line up with Dr. Wendell Scott, president of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Scott says he can go along with the AMA premise that American youth has been educated enough on the health hazards of cigarette smoking. He notes there is a new crop of potential smokers every year and that children are beginning to smoke at younger and younger ages, and that therefore there is a need for a continuing campaign of warning.

"LOCAL MATTER"—The tobacco industry spends 200 million dollars a year in advertising urging the public to smoke cigarettes; the cancer society spends only $100,000 warning that smoking can be dangerous. I do not suggest that the tobacco people stop plugging their product, but merely that it play fair with the people's health by noting in their advertising and on their cigarette packages that excessive use of that product can be fatal.

Malcolm L. Fleischer, a managing director of the Retail Tobacco Dealers of America, Inc., has opposed the warning label on the ground that cigarette sales are "a local matter." So, Mr. Fleischer, is suicide, which in some cases is a synonym for excessive smoking. And if our children are to be permitted to commit this kind of suicide they should at least be told what they are doing.

Views of Others

FOCUS-FOCUS
In a recent onslaught on Soviet Premier Khrushchev, the Chinese Communist party boastfully taunted him with not having his own way in the international communist organization. That might have been a mere empty propaganda claim; but now has come a Soviet communist, Yugoslav, hardly friendly to the Chinese, indirect corroboration that Mr. Khrushchev is to some extent on the defensive.

A correspondent in the Soviet Union of the Yugoslav newspaper Borba recently expressed the view that "Peking's increased splitting activity in the international communist movement has obliged" the Soviet communist party "to revise its initiative" of last year to put an end to open polemics between Moscow and Peking. But, as a commentator on the Yugoslav radio said, Mr. Khrushchev's basic problem is to decide what is the best way to strike back at Peking—and when.

The radio correspondent explained that communist leaders in other countries friendly to Mr. Khrushchev had prevailed upon him to refrain from any hasty reply to the Chinese. But the latter had interpreted the Soviet Premier's silence on the issue in recent months as weakness and as some loss of the Kremlin's once-commanding authority over communist parties everywhere.

Meanwhile, Peking seems intent on trying to force Mr. Khrushchev into a rash move—perhaps one, the Yugoslav says, before he has time properly to evaluate his talks with other communist leaders—which might prove ill-advised. Chinese newspaper have just carried headlines describing his "outcry for an end to public polemics" as "hocus-pocus."

Insofar as Mr. Khrushchev may have been pronouncing an incantation to get the Chinese communists back into the bottle, such a description might be apt. But at least Mr. Khrushchev must now know that mere incantations will no longer do the job.—Christian Science Monitor.

NO RUSSING, SAYS BILL
The civil rights bill passed by the house of representatives and due to precipitate a filibuster in the senate contains a little-known provision of significance to school administrators in Portland and other cities in which there have been charges of de facto segregation in the schools.

Title IV of the bulky bill, which concerns racial policies in public education, goes into enlightening detail on what is to be considered proper procedure in integrating the races in the classroom. "Desegregation," the bill reads, "shall not mean the assignment of students to public schools in order to overcome racial imbalance." In other words, the bill would take a position against such suggested measure as transporting students out of their own neighborhoods in order to achieve a racial balance. The provision was added by amendment on the house floor, proposed by Rep. William C. Cramer, R., Fla., and passed by voice vote.

This is in accord with a recent court ruling in New York in which it was held that the busing of white pupils to a distant school was in conflict with the U. S. supreme court's key school desegregation ruling in May, 1954. Such a practice would be, the New York judge said, racially discriminatory.

Such developments as these will, of course, be noted by the Portland school district's committee on race and education, whose chairman, Judge Herbert Schwab, has indicated that a report will be ready for the school board sometime during the summer.—The Oregonian.

Religion in America

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—President Johnson's "war on poverty" program, as submitted to congress, deftly sidesteps any issue which threatened to embroil it in religious controversy.

While the program was under discussion in the administration, the U.S. office of education advanced a plan for federal grants to strengthen schools in urban slums or rural communities marked by a high incidence of poverty.

A confidential draft of the proposal circulated among educationists stated that the grants would be available to both public and non-profit private institutions. This led Roman Catholic educators to believe that parochial schools would be included.

When news of the proposal was published first by United Press International and later by the National Catholic Welfare News Service, the White House began to receive anxious inquiries from Protestant and Jewish groups who have long contended that it would be unconstitutional to extend federal aid to church-related schools.

Translated from legislative gobbledegook, this means that if a community wants to set up special classes to help poor youths overcome their educational handicaps or acquire job skills, the program must be conducted through public school channels, but the classes would be open to parochial school students on a basis of complete equality.

Although no major religious group has taken an official stand on Johnson's proposals, initial private reactions indicated that the administration's solution of the school dilemma will be accepted with little or no complaint by Catholics, Protestants and Jews.

The government has granted patents to over 300 "snore stoppers." If any one of them was as good as it was alleged to be, it would have a clear field. None of them are very effective so perhaps the ultimate solution is to plug the rest-victim.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

COLUMBUS, O., March 26—This state, which likes to call itself "mother of presidents," eight of which had their origins in Ohio, has a long and illustrious record of political leadership. But this year there is at least a gleam in the eye of the voter as Ohio prepares for a contest considerably above the rank of ordinary politics with a presidential possibility in the future. What is more, the type casting is so good that the principal of the political novels rolling off the presses this year. In the contest for a seat in the senate of the United States this is the lineup:

Lieut. Col. John H. Glenn, Jr., 42, the first astronaut to orbit Earth three times; a hero who on television lived up to every ideal of the all-American image. A comment frequently heard as his name and his face became known to millions was, "Another Eisenhower."

Sen. Stephen M. Young, 74, the incumbent whom Glenn hopes to defeat in the Democratic primary on May 5. A spunky, peppery politician-lawyer, in and out of the house of representatives before his first election to the senate, with a fondness for telling the American Legion and other critics, including many of his constituents, to mind their own business and let him mind his.

Rep. Robert A. Taft, Jr., principal heir of one of America's rich and powerful dynastic families, possessor of a name long potent in Ohio politics. At 47 he has worked his way up the political ladder, serving four years in the state legislature before being elected the state's only representative-at-large.

What gives the coming campaign an added interest is the possibility that a national hero could again defeat a Taft, then by repealing the drama of 1952 when "New Frontier" met "Old Guard."

When the presidential nomination goes to General Eisenhower, the goal of a lifetime was so close and the defeat so bitter that the GOP was deeply scarred. Taft died less than a year later.

A Taft-Glenn contest must wait on the primary. The guessing here is that it will be a close contest. Glenn has youth, a warm, magnetic smile and the carry-over of a lengthy exposure on television that has superimposed a generous after-image.

Young's age is a handicap. As one cynical and expert observer put it:

"Young's friends are trying to make him over into a statesman and that's a big mistake. If he'd just run for what he is, a pretty shrewd politician who has done his best for the country, he would have made it work up a little sympathy for himself in the face of this interloper, he might make it."

But as Glenn is discovering, going into orbit in politics is as difficult as going into orbit in space.

TOKYO—U. S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer, coming on an attack by a Japanese youth in which he suffered a knife-wound in the thigh:

"My only concern about this incident is that to a small people it might seem to mar deep friendship and cordial relations that exist between our countries."

GENEVA, Switzerland—President Johnson, in a message to the United Nations trade conference pledging U. S. cooperation in a worldwide effort to raise standards of living in poor nations:

"The great task of our time is to bring the fruits of economic well-being to all peoples of the world of peace and freedom."

WASHINGTON—Chairman William Fulbright of the senate foreign relations committee, agreeing the United States has agreed to negotiate a treaty with Panama:

"Surely in a confrontation unequal, it is not up to us to expect the United States to go a little farther than half in search for a fair settlement."

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If you are a snorer, you are not the victim, your roommate is. Snoring is the subject of many jokes but the humor drains out of all of them in the middle of an otherwise peaceful night.

Let it be said to the snorer that his snoring is purely involuntary, although how he manages to sleep through all that racket remains one of life's unsolved mysteries.

Basically, the cause of snoring is vibration of the soft palate and uvula. The underlying causes are many. Lucky is the person who is married to a snorer for whom a correctable cause can be found.

Such causes include enlarged tonsils and adenoids; a swollen uvula (usually associated with a throat infection); nasal obstruction (due to allergy infection, a nasal polyp or a deviated nasal septum); falling asleep without removing poorly fitted dental plates—a bad practice at best; excessive smoking or drinking which results in a chronically inflamed throat; and, in some persons, old age, which may result in relaxation of the facial muscles and thus facilitate snoring.

The first step in treatment is for the snorer to have a thorough checkup to discover the cause of his snoring and correction of any contributory factors found. Operations for the removal of the uvula and part of the soft palate should never be done. Unfortunately, in many snorers no obvious cause can be found and the treatment then boils down to devices applied to the snorer or his captive audience.

Lodge Explains Viet Nam Crisis

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, March 26 (AP)—The loss of South Viet Nam to the communists would be a clear success for red China that would endanger a vast area of Asia in which 240 million people live, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said today.

In prepared answers to questions put to the ambassador by Wes Gallagher, general manager of The Associated Press, Lodge made these other points:

1. Lodge believes South Viet Nam's war against the Viet Cong can be won by applying current plans, "provided external hostile influences stay within bounds."
2. The general withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam at this time would be "disastrous."
3. Neutralization of South Viet Nam as proposed by France and communist bloc nations would be "the complete equivalent of communist victory."

Gallagher submitted his questions to Lodge during a visit to Saigon earlier this week. The AP general manager is now in the Philippines.

These were the questions and answers:

Q. Why is the freedom of South Viet Nam important to the United States?

Lodge: "Communist China wants to turn Viet Nam into a satellite. The war in South Viet Nam is advertised by them as a war of liberation — on which they base their propaganda line that their brand of communism is superior to the Soviet brand; and that the United States is both the world's greatest imperialist power and also a paper tiger which is unable or unwilling to use its own power."

"Then, South Viet Nam is the hub of an area which is bounded on the northeast and east by Formosa and the Philippines, on the south by Indonesia, and on the west by Burma. Communist seizure of South Viet Nam would put the communists squarely in the middle of Southeast Asia, whence they could radiate all over."

"The loss of South Viet Nam would have an incalculable effect on Cambodia and Laos, with strong repercussions further west in Thailand and Burma. It would shake Malaysia to the south, it would surely threaten Indonesia. If Indonesia were unable or unwilling to resist, the Chinese communists would be on the front doorstep of Australia."

"Eastward, the repercussions for the Philippines and for Formosa would be severe. Therefore, when we speak of South east Asia, we are not talking of some small neck of the woods, but of an area about 2,300 miles long from north to south, and 3,000 miles wide from east to west, with about 240 million people."

"If the communist Chinese, using North Viet Nam as a catapult, were able to take over South Viet Nam, it would be interpreted as a vindication of the fanatic Chinese methods over that of the Soviets. It would also be regarded in the free world as reflecting a general lack of ability, a lack of will power by the United States to prevent communist aggression."

Q. The war throughout South Viet Nam seems to be in a stalemate with little relative gain by either side. What changes can be expected to end this low-key period of conflict?

Lodge: "I believe that persistent execution of the existing civil-political and military plans will bring victory — provided the hostile external influences stay within bounds. Under South Vietnamese premier General Khanh, a new and much stronger situation is being created which means that in the army bravery is being rewarded."

Q. Critics at home have suggested withdrawal of U. S. troops immediately. In your opinion, what would be the effect of such action?

Lodge: "Some U. S. troops, which are performing specific missions can be withdrawn as soon as their missions are completed. But a general withdrawal of the United States at this time would be disastrous. We and the Vietnamese have built a strong position here."

"The cost to us in dollars per year is less than it costs to build one airplane carrier. For us to throw away this joint investment, for which brave men have laid down their lives, would be imprudent."

Q. Do you envisage any circumstances wherein the neutrality solution as proposed by France, would be acceptable to the United States, insofar as South Viet Nam is concerned?

Lodge: "The so-called neutralization under present circumstances is the complete equivalent of Communist victory."

Know How to Get Enemies? Stand up for Meat Imports

(Editor's note: The cattle industry is in a tight spot. Prices that cattlemen are getting for their beef are so low that in some places farmers can't even make expenses. The cattlemen are complaining that their work on imported meat is only part of the case—that domestic overproduction is a real cause of the price collapse. The view from the beef capital of Omaha is brought to focus in the following dispatch, first of a two-part series on the subject. The second part will appear in tomorrow's Times-News Farm Section.)

By DONALD R. PFEIFFER
OMAHA, March 26 (AP)—One sure way to make enemies in the corn and cow belt these days is to defend the importation of foreign meat.

It's about as popular as hoof and mouth disease.

The livestock industry, especially the beef cattle branch, is staggering through a siege of depressed prices so serious that many farmers can't even make expenses—let alone make a profit on stock they fatten for steaks and roasts.

And, despite consistent declarations to the contrary by the U. S. department of agriculture, stockmen claim the "bad guys" in this western saga are the foreign nations which ship meat here.

Sure, the USDA says, there has been an increase lately in the amount of meat exported to the United States. But, it adds, the real cause of the current price collapse is domestic overproduction.

Imports, Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said recently in a letter to Nebraska Gov. Frank B. Morrison, account directly for only about 15 per cent of the cattle industry's price woes.

The rancher who breeds and gives a start in life to the range cattle and the farmer who forces the animals to produce rich and tender beef argue that if there is domestic overproduction, this is all the more reason for checking off imports.

The cattlemen industry is in a militant mood. Demands have been filed to congressmen, federal agencies and to President Johnson himself that something be done about imports—and done soon.

Protest meetings are a dime a dozen. More than 5,000 cattle feeders jammed into the south-west Iowa community of Shenandoah for a meeting. An annual livestock conference sponsored by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce drew such a large registration this year that the meeting had to be switched to a bigger hall.

At Beatrice, a community in southwest Nebraska, the city council made it illegal to sell imported meat—fresh or processed—in town. A $50 fine was established as a penalty. Beatrice Mayor W. W. Cook, Jr., wrote all other Nebraska cities and urged them to take similar action.

In the rangeland village of Gordon in northwest Nebraska, the council went a step further. A jail sentence is possible there for violation of a new anti-import ordinance.

But these ordinances are mostly for propaganda purposes because very little foreign meat is being sold in cow country.

There are markets for imported beef on both coasts where price takes precedence over loyalty as far as meat is concerned. For even though domestic livestock prices have sagged below profitable levels, the butcher shop prices for domestic meat haven't shown comparable decline; so, imported meat, despite duties and shipping fees, still costs less to put on an American platter.

This is a source of no little irritation to farmers. But they have pretty much listened to the rebuttal by packers and grocers that fixed costs such as labor, rent, taxes and such have climbed so high that lower on-the-hoof prices for meat just can't be reflected entirely in the prices "Mrs. Housewife" has to pay.

The farmers want to slay the import dragon with tight restrictions which would cut the flow to a trickle. They want higher tariffs which would make what foreign meat does reach this country compete on a price basis with what the domestic producers have to ask.

They aren't at all satisfied with the voluntary agreement reached recently with New Zealand and Australia. Reams of news releases have been issued by farm and livestock associations condemning the agreement as everything from a sop to an insult.

But the federal government has no authority to restrict imports, and state and agriculture department officials say the agreement was the best they could get on a voluntary basis.

The agreement cuts Australian and New Zealand imports back slightly from last year's record levels.

Not enough, the stockmen here say.

The failure to get a more popular agreement raised a cry for immediate congressional action giving the administration authority to tighten the import noose.

Most of the beef being shipped to the United States comes from Australia, with New Zealand another large contributor. Mexico is becoming an increasingly important meat export nation.

The Omaha World-Herald assigned two reporters and a photographer to study the import problem in detail. An eight-part series by the newspaper sparked a big response and the articles were published in booklet form to meet the demand for copies. The articles were also re-printed by other newspapers.

One point which the World-Herald's team dug out was that American money and know-how were being invested in some foreign cattle operations. American knowledge has increased the productivity and efficiency.

But most observers agree that imported meat generally does not have the quality of the domestic product, especially the cornfed beef from the heart of the nation.

American grain, specially milled, is being shipped to feedlots in Mexico to help raise the quality of the beef, some of which is excellent.

Most of the imported beef is used for hamburger. In some places, a mixture of domestic and imported beef is used for hamburger.

Despite all their problems, cattle feeders continue to hope for better times. They are paying $5 a hundredweight more for feeder cattle now than fed cattle are bringing. That means the feeder is praying that fed cattle prices will have climbed by the time he puts fat on the steer he buys today.

The odds aren't too favorable. The World-Herald summed it up with a headline which said, "THE 1964 OUTLOOK: WORSE."

Stockmen are living off savings and postponing major purchases. This spreads the problems to the merchants in the breadbasket, communities where the cash in a farmer's pocket nearly always dictates the health of the economy.

East Idaho Farmers' Illegal Practice Nets Men Big Fines

POCATELLO, March 26 (AP)—An Idaho Falls man and a resident of Grace were fined a total of $3,500 in U.S. district court here Wednesday afternoon, for taking part in what was called a widespread practice among some eastern Idaho farmers.

The Mel Brown company, Inc., Idaho Falls, was fined $500 by U. S. District Judge Fred M. Taylor on each of three counts that it submitted fictitious documents to the federal government. A salesman for the firm, Jay Turner, Grace, was fined $500 on each of four counts.

The corporation and Turner were charged with allowing farmers to collect from the federal government a higher portion of the cost of installing sprinkler and pipe line systems on their farms.

As explained by Attorney John M. Sharp, Idaho Falls, who represented the defendants, the federal government participated in part of the cost of installing the pipe systems, either 50 per cent or 75 per cent of the total cost. The firm's Grace office would submit a voucher for a certain amount to a farmer, Sharp said, then prepare a voucher with a larger amount on it to be submitted to the federal government for repayment. In this way, Sharp said, a farmer may have collected 50 per cent of a voucher for $1,000, whereas he was entitled only to 50 per cent of a cost of $500.

Sharp said neither the firm nor Turner profited from the transactions. He said only the farmers benefited, by collecting more from the federal government than was legal under the cost-sharing plan.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Bakes said the total amount which was fraudulently collected was probably not more than $500 or $600.

Judge Taylor then asked why the farmers were not charged with defrauding the government, along with the corporation and Turner. Bakes said information had been presented to a grand jury in Boise, but the grand jury had declined to return criminal indictments against the five farmers involved.

An indictment against the girl who prepared the claim vouchers was also declined, Bakes said.

Bakes said the practice of submitting higher vouchers than was legal "appears to be a prevailing practice in the area; not only with this company but others as well."

Sharp said the main office of the company, in Idaho Falls, had no knowledge of the submission of false vouchers. And Turner said he didn't think anything illegal was going on, as he was in the field most of the time and an office clerk prepared the vouchers.

Judge Taylor said, "I can't say why these farmers were exonerated. They directly benefited from these transactions."

He then told Turner, "Whether you got any money from this or not—you were helping these people get money from the government."

"This is not something which can be condoned." To Turner's claim that he did not know what was happening, Taylor said, "Your ignorance is no excuse. Anybody knows better than that—any school boy."

"This isn't a small matter," the judge said. "The government is probably being defrauded out of millions of dollars this way."

He then levied the fines, and gave the firm and Turner 10 days to raise the money.

"You probably didn't realize the seriousness of it," he told Turner, "but you were conscious of doing something wrong."

There will be church school classes for the nursery, first and second grade children only.

Church Lauds ARA Work in North Idaho

MOSCOW, March 26 (U)—The area redevelopment administration, which has been once criticized for supporting, has done more to improve the economy of North Idaho than any other federal agency, Senator Church, D., Idaho, said Wednesday.

"When I voted for the ARA, I was criticized for supporting a program that would bring no benefits to this part of the state," said Church. The senator then cited ARA projects such as the Schweitzer basin ski area near Sandpoint, a plywood plant at St. Maries and planer mill at Plummer.

Church, who is spending two days in northern Idaho, was honored at a chamber of commerce reception Wednesday night. He spoke earlier at the group's luncheon.

Church said funds are expected to be appropriated this year for a 1.7 million dollar postoffice and federal building at Moscow and one costing 1.2 million dollars at St. Maries. Site selections are expected to be settled soon, he said.

Baptists Have Mixed Feeling On Challenge

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26 (U)—Southern Baptists see both challenge and opportunity in an attempt to force the people into backing a move for more federal power in President Johnson's appeal for support of a strong civil rights bill.

The response was divided and varied from region to region. "The President told a Southern Baptist leadership seminar in Washington Wednesday that the civil rights cause 'demands prophetic in our time men of compassion and truth, unafraid of the consequences of fulfilling their faith.'"

James Duncan, Washington, D. C., editor of the church publication Capital Baptist, said most of those present felt Johnson's statement might move Southern Baptists to do more about the problem.

"Everyone there seemed to feel he hit the nail right on the head and gave us a challenge," Duncan said.

"One hates to think the President should have to remind a denominational religious group what their responsibility is but perhaps it was needed," Duncan added.

Some Baptist leaders in Alabama didn't think so, however. Dr. George E. Bagley, executive secretary of the Baptist executive board and Dr. Leon Mason, president of the Alabama Baptist state convention, said in a joint statement:

"Our President is obviously trying to coerce the people in the nation into backing his move to enlarge federal power to the point where our freedom to choose our associates and neighbors will be placed in the hands of the bureaucrats."

"We cannot in good conscience endorse this bill. We urge the 750,000 Baptists in Alabama to study its inherent dangers, and decide for themselves."

The Southern Baptists claim 10 million members. In the words of the President, "No group of Christians has greater responsibility for civil rights."

News Around Idaho

BOISE, March 26 (U)—A new display advertising Idaho's "half-billion dollar beef industry" went up in the statehouse Wednesday. Sponsored by the Idaho Cattlemen's association, it features the profile of a fat steer, showing where various cuts of meat come from. It also has a panel of 14 lighter pictures showing phases of the beef industry in Idaho. Robert Henderlinder, secretary of the association, said most of the pictures showing grazing cattle were taken in the New Meadows area. Others show a feedlot near Caldwell, and beef as it looks on the plate. The display is located in the corridor of the first floor near the eighth street entrance.

BOISE, March 26 (U)—The Idaho Tuberculosis association says unless it realizes $2,000 more from its Christmas seal drive it may have to cancel plans for a statewide skin testing program already under way in some areas. George Meinen, campaign director, said the association hoped to expand it to include the entire state but can't without additional funds. He said the seal drive is the association's only source of funds.

BOISE, March 26 (U)—Gov. Robert E. Smylie says he is hopeful a deal can be completed in 90 days giving the state title to 2,700 acres of the Farragut wildlife preserve on Lake Pend Oreille as a site for a new park. State officials and representatives of the general services administration and corps of engineers agreed Wednesday on procedure to be followed and Smylie said there were "no barriers" to completion of the trade. "It will give us a major park area in one of the most important areas of the state," said Smylie, "and in an area where there isn't any public facility presently available." He said with Ponderosa park on the Payette lake peninsula and the Harriman park site in southeast Idaho, the Farragut site will give Idaho "the beginnings of one of the outstanding state park systems in the nation."

BOISE, March 26 (U)—The state board of examiners has approved payment of rent for state offices in the new Bank of Idaho building, but without agreement by the only Democratic member, Secretary of State Arnold Williams. Gov. Robert E. Smylie and Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard, both Republicans, signed the authorization Wednesday but Williams passed the document along without signing. He made no comment, but said afterward: "I think it is an unjustified expense to the state. I feel that office space is available at a lesser amount of rental." The authorization was for transfer of $18,000 from the permanent building fund to the rental fund. Rent for the two full floors of the building will amount to about $52,000 a year. The 1963 legislature authorized payment of rental from the permanent building fund for space for offices which now occupy statehouse space the lawmakers want to use when they are in session. The legislative council agreed with Smylie in the decision to rent two floors of the 12-story building. The move is expected to start early in April.

BOISE, March 26 (U)—James McClary, Boise, state chairman of the Goldwater-for-President committee, has appointed two district chairmen. John Batt, Wilder, will supervise activities in district 3, which includes Adams, Valley, Washington, Payette, Canyon, Gem and Boise counties. Don Modi, Lewiston, will head district 2, including Latah, Lewis, Nez Perce, Clearwater and Idaho counties.

BOISE, March 26 (U)—W. C. Shideler, an Ada county deputy sheriff for 19 years, was named last month as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff. He is the first of his party to announce although three Republicans are in the running. The incumbent sheriff, Myron C. Gilbert, a Republican, has not announced his intentions.

FOOTBALL, March 26 (U)—A former Long Beach, Calif., cock tail waitress testified Wednesday that she was transported from Long Beach to Idaho Falls in December for purposes of prostitution. Patricia Ann Price, 21, an attractive redhead, testified in the trial of Charles George Smith, 40, and his wife, Doris Jean Caylor Smith, 23, charged with violating the white slave traffic act. The prosecution planned to call five more witnesses in the case in U.S. district court. Miss Price said she and the Smiths checked into an Idaho Falls motel Dec. 23. She said Smith beat her up on Jan. 1. Mrs. Ann Smith, an Idaho Falls housewife, testified that she and her husband were driving in downtown Idaho Falls when Miss Price ran up and asked for help. She said the woman had been beaten.

BOISE, March 26 (U)—Land Commissioner O. J. Buxton said Wednesday he will recommend land board approval of an application for a gravel lease on the Snake river near Hammett. The Indian Hill irrigation district of Hammett, which is developing a 2,500-acre pump irrigation project south of the river, wants the gravel to build a 12-mile access road, he said. Buxton said the three-year lease would allow the district to take gravel from the south side of the river at Indian Cove. He said in addition to returns on the lease, the state gets a royalty on gravel taken out, all for the general fund.

Doctor Tells Of Glenn's Ear Injury

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 26 (U)—The brutal concussion suffered by former astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., Feb. 26 was absorbed by his left inner ear, his doctor says.

Dr. Earl W. Brannon said in an interview that the marine lieutenant colonel is making a normal course of recovery from an injury of this type. He described it as labyrinthitis, an inflammation of the inner ear generally caused by an injury or infection.

Brannon, chairman of the department of orthopedic surgery at Wilford Hall air force hospital where Glenn, 42, has been since March 6, said "this is the important thing" in recovery.

"Glenn slipped as he was attempting to hang a mirror in the bathroom of his temporary Columbus, O., apartment and slammed his head against the bathtub.

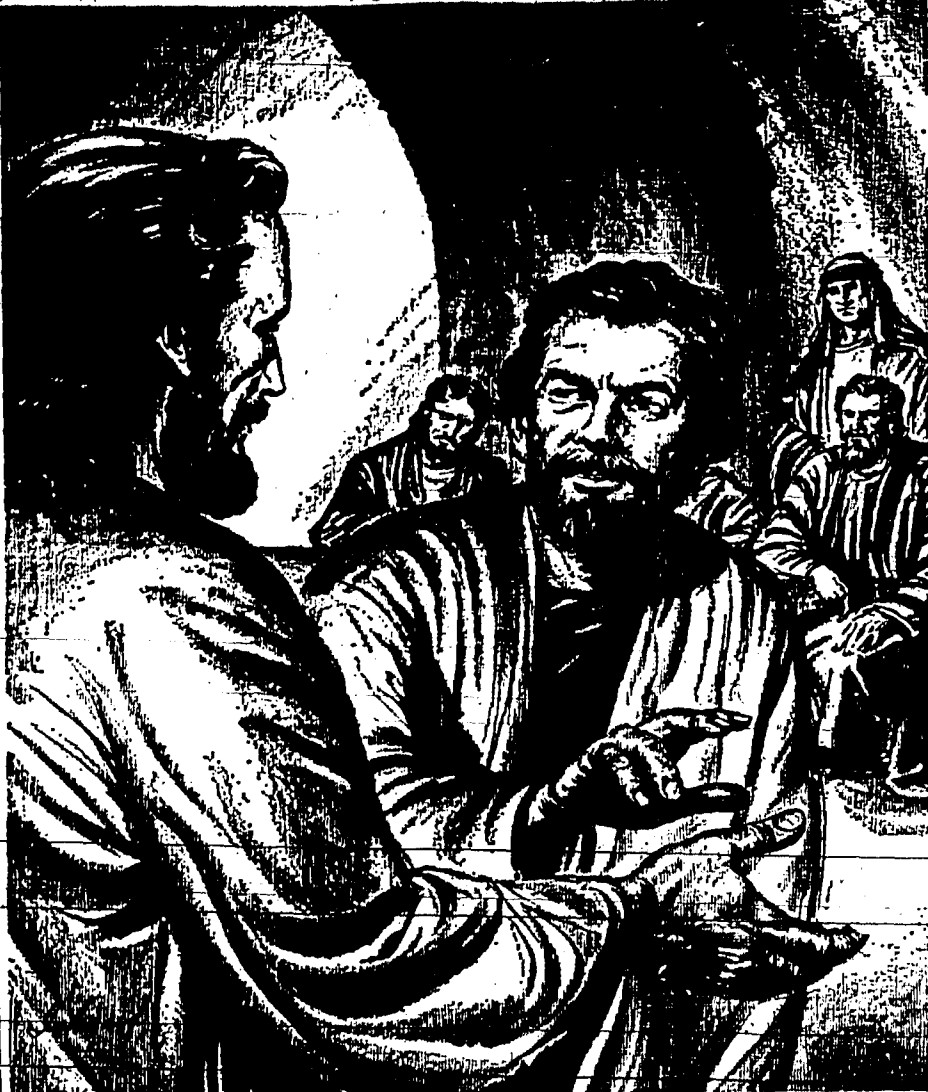

The fall delayed Glenn's retirement from the marine corps and his campaign for the Democratic U. S. senatorial nomination in Ohio. He hopes to be re-elected now on April 1, but Brannon indicated it might be later.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODY ISMAEL

DOUBTING THOMAS

After the crucifixion, the eleven Apostles huddled together behind locked doors, fearing the mob that had killed Jesus.

Christ suddenly appeared in their midst, saying "peace be with you."

The Apostle Thomas, who was not there at the time, refused to believe it.

"Unless I see in His hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the place of the nails, and put my hand into His side, I will not believe."

When Jesus again visited the Apostles behind locked doors, Thomas was among them. Jesus said to him: "Bring here thy finger and see My hands; and bring here thy hand and put it into My side."

Thomas answered, "My Lord and my God."

But Jesus said to him, "Because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed." (John XX:29) 3-26

Roger Vincent sang two songs, with Mrs. Don Sims as accompanist.

Active pallbearers were Jack Brann, Don Loper, Warren Hoodenpyle, Harry Patterson, Harry Tracy and Star Umphenour, with Kenneth Van Dorn as alternate. Honorary pallbearers were Erle Whippley, Carson Wallace, Alvah Bell, John Bragg, Joe Kyer and Vernon Bumgarner.

Military rites were conducted by members of Veterans of World War I barracks at Elmwood cemetery.

Goldwater Campaign Called 'Emotional Cult' by Walker

BOISE, March 26 (U)—State Democratic Chairman Lloyd Walker said Wednesday that the presidential campaign of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R., Ariz., "has become almost an emotional cult" and has "lost reason and sense."

Walker predicted that Goldwater won't win the Republican party's nomination. He added that Idaho supporters of the Arizona senator have as much as told other Republicans that if he isn't the choice, they won't back anyone.

Walker addressed about 50 people at a meeting of the Ada County Young Democratic club. He called Goldwater a "gimmick man" with "a five word solution for every complex problem that affects the world today."

He said Goldwater's candidacy is a laughing matter on the East coast.

Goldwater backers, said Walker, are attempting to gain control of the Republican party in Idaho. He said selection of chairman for the state GOP convention by the executive committee of the Republican central committee was made by Goldwater backers without the knowledge of Gov. Robert E. Smylie or State Chairman John McMurray.

"The reason for this is that Governor Smylie is no great Goldwater fan and they didn't want him to know about the meeting," said Walker.

He said it was a "humiliation" to both Smylie and McMurray.

Male Quartet to Appear in Buhl

BUHL, March 26—The Apostles quartet, Nampa, will appear at the Church of the Nazarene at 7:45 p.m. Saturday for a "community concert." The male group also will appear at the Sunday morning worship service at the church.

The Rev. Norman Van Slyke, local pastor, said the quartet will sing at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the church. He extends an invitation to the public. The Saturday evening concert will include gospel songs, classic and Southern spirituals.

Miss Rupert Contestants Honored by Lions Members

RUPERT, March 26—The 10 contestants who have entered the Miss Rupert pageant, scheduled for April 4 at Minidoka high school, were guests of the Lions club Monday evening at the Rupert Elks club.

Lions club members and their wives hosted the entrants at a dinner. Russell Jacobsen, chairman of the event, was master of ceremonies.

Each of the pageant entrants was introduced by her host and gave a short summary of her personal history and reported on

Zoning Unit Is Appointed For Minidoka

RUPERT, March 26—Minidoka county commissioners appointed an 11-member zoning committee this week. It is the first action taken on the matter since residents of the county gave the commissioners authority to complete the zoning in an election last November.

Preliminary work on zoning will get under way, although no funds for the work would be budgeted until sometime in 1965, according to Burt Van Every, chairman of the board of commissioners.

Two members from each of the three commissioners districts in the county and one member from each of the five municipalities will comprise the new committee.

Commissioner district representatives include Art Smith and Henry Schodde, district one; Pete Wakewood and Ron Wheeler, district two and Roy Honsinger and George Hedlund, district three.

Municipality representatives include Wayne Hollenbeck, Rupert; Art Grove, Paul; Virgil Matison, Heyburn; Eldon Stephenson, Acquia, and Mrs. Paul Courtright, Minidoka.

Cuban Refugees Suffering From Malnutrition

MIAMI, Fla., March 26 (AP)—The director of the Cuban refugee center medical clinic reports increasing malnutrition among exiles, particularly small children, arriving in recent weeks. "They bear marks of malnutrition such as skin alterations," Dr. Miriam Bosch said on a Spanish language television program Wednesday.

OLDEST GRADUATE DIES WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Col. John Power Hains, 98, oldest graduate of the U. S. military academy, died Wednesday. He graduated from West Point in 1889.

DAN E. STAPLES

... put away some props after a performance in Seoul, Korea, of the Brigham Young university-produced and USO-sponsored show, "The Man Who Came to Dinner." They, with 11 other students of the university and their director-manager, Dr. Harold L. Hansen, director of the school's department of dramatic arts, have been touring U.S. military installations throughout the Far East for the last six weeks. Staples, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Staples, route 3, Twin Falls, plays the part of Beverly Carlton in the Kaufman and Hart farce. (He played the role of Bill in the 1962 production of "Kiss Me Kate," by the Dilettante Group of Magic Valley.) Barth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo H. Barth, 1806 Main LaRue avenue, is cast in the supporting role of Banjo in the production.

Bootlegger Now Seeks Election To Sheriff Post

ANTLERS, Okla., March 26 (AP) — A candidate for sheriff of Pushmataha county says that just as he once ran "one of the largest and most modern liquor stills" in the state, he's determined to "have the very best of all possible law enforcement."

Ernest Moore, the Democratic candidate for sheriff, says in a leaflet on his candidacy: "I do not contend to be an angel."

The leaflet says he was "convicted of concealing one of the largest and most modern stills ever seized in the state of Oklahoma."

"It was wrong and I repent of my wrongdoings. Even though it was illegal I had the best. If I am elected to the sheriff's office, I will be determined to have the very best of all possible law enforcement."

Faint Trick

GLENDAL, Calif., March 26 (AP) — How do you stop a bank bandit from robbing you a second time?

Bank teller Susan Leroy, 43, fainted.

Miss Leroy told officers she recognized the bandit Wednesday as the same curly-haired gunman who took $520 from her March 11 at Gateway branch of the Bank of America.

She fainted. The bandit fled empty-handed.

I will be determined to have the very best of all possible law enforcement."

Junior Music Club Presents March Program

The program for the March meeting of St. Edwards Junior Music club followed a religious theme based on the Easter story. The program was announced by Sister Mary Zita. The musical selections were sung by the St. Edwards children's choir under the direction of Sister Johanna, with Beth Britt as accompanist.

A report on Palm Sunday was given by Susan Perry. William Bever explained Holy Thursday. The choir sang "Take Communion of the Mass" and "Pange Lingua." Mark Kriekamp reported on Good Friday. The musical numbers, "Crux Fidelis" and "Dulce Lignum," were sung. Holy Saturday was explained by Mary Kriekamp, after which the choir sang "Gloria," "Lauda," "Et Valda Mane," "Regina Coelestis" and "Judith Deo."

A business meeting was conducted by Miss Britt, president. Plans were announced for a program to be presented by the Junior Music club for the St. Edwards Parents' club April 21.

Anniversary Is Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hartley, San Mateo, Calif., were feted at a buffet luncheon given by their children in honor of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley were married Jan. 1, 1914, in Ava, Mo. The couple resided in Ava until 1933 when they moved to Twin Falls. They farmed in Twin Falls until 1934, then moved to San Mateo.

They have three children, Bernice Hartley and Mrs. Frieda Daniels, San Mateo, and Mrs. Reba Rowen, Sunnyvale, Calif., six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Underworld Still Hangs Around Liston Despite Formal Severing of Ties

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—Senate investigators heard testimony Wednesday about underworld figures still hanging around Sonny Liston, although the former heavyweight champion formally severed ties with them several years ago. Jack Nilon, Liston's business adviser, told the senate antitrust subcommittee: 1. He hadn't asked any questions when Liston said he wanted to sign over valuable

Sports

FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY

Rambling around with tongue in cheek!

Reflecting on a long basketball season probably the most remarkable thing we witnessed all year was the record of 6-foot, 5-inch Gene Wilkins, Gooding, in addition to playing just about every minute of Gooding's games, Wilkins didn't commit a foul.

The referee missed about 60 calls on him during the season, however. But in each instance, Wilkins was wanted coach Del Bieard it wasn't so by snatching his head

Having kicked the tobacco habit to the degree that we didn't have to leave a game at half-time, we are in a strong position to pick the high school drill team of the year.

But reflecting on the angry and nasty little letters and phone calls we got from irate mothers last year, we're rather afraid to say it.

Hurriedly, however — Burley's Steppettes overall with Twin Falls and Valley each having one good routine.

The quote of the year comes from Rex Adamson, Gooding, who has two fine athletic sons. One is a freshman, the other, Ron, a gee-whiz type sophomore.

"If the younger one had as much publicity as the older one we'd have to tie him to the top of the bus when we went to games," Rex smiled.

Idaho Power company sneaked into the athletic scene long enough to give Shoshone a momentary hope and make Burley a potentially strong club.

Idaho Power announced it was transferring a man to Shoshone. The man had a son 6-foot, 8-inches. Shoshone was happy.

Then Idaho Power changed its mind. Instead Hanes was sent to Burley. Which made Shoshone sad but gave Burley exactly what it will need if it is to be strong next year.

But Idaho Power didn't forget Shoshone. It transferred another man, whose son is a football letterman.

Reflecting on this, another coach mentioned "I think our new transfer has three daughters."

When Jim Wallace and Frank Urquien came to Twin Falls to referee the finals of the A-1 district tournament, they found coach Paul Ostyn, Twin Falls, and Rulon Budge, Burley, in front of the scorer's bench talking.

Wallace, trying for a little chuckle, stepped between them and asked, "Who are the coaches for tonight?"

Budge was equal to the challenge. Turning Wallace around he took in one side of the crowd with a sweep of a hand. "Pick 'em out yourself," he invited.

The best case of blind allegiance is submitted by an Oakley fan. After watching the Genesee-Oakley state tournament game, this bit-overlaid fan charged the scorer's bench.

"I wanna know the foul totals," he demanded.

"Against Genesee, 27 against Oakley," was the reply.

"That's what I thought," he said, thinking dark thoughts about officials.

The final score was Genesee 78, Oakley 49. The game was over six minutes after it started.

One of the last gasps of the basketball season was the exhibition at Buhl of the All-American Redheads, a touring girls' team. With the club was a 6-foot, 7-inch center named Rosalia Kaschmitter, who happens to come from Grangeville and there is a story in that.

Miss Kaschmitter has a brother at Grangeville high who is 6 feet, 8 inches. On March 13 the two were featured in fighting for the entertainment dollar.

Miss Kaschmitter was with the Redheads in Clarkston, Wash., while right across the river in Lewiston her brother was helping Grangeville win an A-3 tournament semi-final game.

We wish we could tell you their parents are midgeets.

If you want to argue a moot question, here's one. Which is the more important—the NCAA title or an Idaho basketball crown?

While coach LaDell Anderson had his Utah State Aggies playing in the Far West, NCAA semi-finalist, Devon Anderson had Murtaugh Red Devils leading in the A-4 semi-finals at night.

Just assured, LaDell felt no more anguish in the $14,000 and annual trophy than Devon Aguirre of the Philippines in 2:48 of the 10th round.

stock to Sam Margolis, who according to previous testimony once owned an apartment house jointly with racketeer Frank (Blinky) Palermo. Nilon said he thought Margolis was entitled to the stock for setting up the deal for promoting Liston's fight.

T. Joe (Pep) Barone, an underworld figure who once managed Liston, was sent for by Liston before the Feb. 25 fight when he lost his title to Cassius Clay.

The subcommittee heard Nilon in the second day of its probe into circumstances surrounding the Liston-Clay fight.

Hearings by the subcommittee in 1960 brought testimony that Liston's contract was controlled by three underworld figures, Barone, Barone and John Vitale.

Later, Liston was suspended by the Pennsylvania Athletic commission because of his underworld ties and to gain reinstatement bought his contract from Barone for $75,000.

Nilon said Liston still owed Barone $42,000 for his contract and Barone told him he expected to get it from the proceeds of the Clay fight.

Barone was at Liston's house the day after the fight, along with a mob of other people, Nilon said, and he gave Barone a check for $3,000 or $4,000 and charged it to Liston, but didn't ask Liston's permission to do so.

Nilon said Barone was broke and needed the money.

About the fight itself, Nilon said as far as he knew Liston's arm was okay when he entered the ring, although he had a history of burritts.

But he said Liston had refused to take Clay seriously, hadn't trained properly for the fight and couldn't believe he could lose.

Nilon said he and Liston feuded constantly before the fight as he tried to get Liston to train.

But he admitted that even though Liston could beat Clay, and still does.

Nilon said he was "living in high hopes he (Liston) would land a bomb and put the boy away." I felt Sonny could beat this guy with one hand."

Finally, when the bell sounded for the seventh round, Liston said he could clench his left fist any longer and stopped the fight.

Nilon said, a Philadelphia vending machine operator was a close friend of Liston's and had been for many years. It was Margolis who proposed organization of Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., to promote Liston's fights and give the fighter a share of promotional profits. Liston received half interest in the firm.

When he asked Liston about signing over 275 of his 500 shares to Margolis, Nilon said, "Sonny said that was the way he wanted it."

Apparently Liston received no compensation for signing over the stock, and Nilon said.

"I never asked why he signed it over. I thought when the stock certificates were issued that Margolis had half of it. If I was in Mr. Margolis' shoes and had arranged such a good deal, I would have wanted at least 20 per cent promoter's equity."

When Jim Wallace and Frank Urquien came to Twin Falls to referee the finals of the A-1 district tournament, they found coach Paul Ostyn, Twin Falls, and Rulon Budge, Burley, in front of the scorer's bench talking.

Wallace, trying for a little chuckle, stepped between them and asked, "Who are the coaches for tonight?"

Budge was equal to the challenge. Turning Wallace around he took in one side of the crowd with a sweep of a hand. "Pick 'em out yourself," he invited.

The best case of blind allegiance is submitted by an Oakley fan. After watching the Genesee-Oakley state tournament game, this bit-overlaid fan charged the scorer's bench.

"I wanna know the foul totals," he demanded.

"Against Genesee, 27 against Oakley," was the reply.

"That's what I thought," he said, thinking dark thoughts about officials.

The final score was Genesee 78, Oakley 49. The game was over six minutes after it started.

One of the last gasps of the basketball season was the exhibition at Buhl of the All-American Redheads, a touring girls' team. With the club was a 6-foot, 7-inch center named Rosalia Kaschmitter, who happens to come from Grangeville and there is a story in that.

Miss Kaschmitter has a brother at Grangeville high who is 6 feet, 8 inches. On March 13 the two were featured in fighting for the entertainment dollar.

Miss Kaschmitter was with the Redheads in Clarkston, Wash., while right across the river in Lewiston her brother was helping Grangeville win an A-3 tournament semi-final game.

Twin Falls Posts Win in Season's First Track Meet

The Twin Falls Bruins opened the Magic Valley track season on a typically windy day Wednesday by defeating the Jerome Tigers and Filer Wildcats in a triangular meet. The Bruins had 117 points against 57 for Jerome and 11 for Filer. Twin Falls won 14 out of a possible 17 firsts and Jerome got the other three. There were no double winners, the Bruins withholding all track lettersmen that had participated in basketball. Coach Jerry Kleinkopf did not feel the six lettermen, who just turned out Monday, were ready.

Royals Batter 76ers, Take Playoff Lead

CINCINNATI, March 16 (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals piled up huge margins in the first half of the season's first playoff game, defeating the Philadelphia 76ers 101-89 Wednesday night in the first of two games of the Eastern division of the National Basketball Association.

Cincinnati now has a 2-1 advantage and the next game in the best-of-five series will be Saturday night at Philadelphia.

After five lead changes, and one tie, the Royals jumped out on top by scoring 11 straight points while the 76ers were behind 16-15, then, but shot into a 24-18 first quarter lead.

The Royals scored on 23 points in the third period. Philadelphia could only connect for 18. The 76ers held the Royals scoreless for the first 4:10 minutes of the fourth quarter, but still couldn't overcome the big Cincinnati lead.

In the third period, John Kerr of the 76ers was cut above the right eye and required three stitches. He continued to play, however.

Joe Richman, part owner of the 76ers, was charged from the sidelines the second time in the night. He was told to leave at the game in Philadelphia Tuesday night. Chet Walker of Philadelphia and Coach Jack McMahon of Cincinnati had technical fouls called on them.

Patterson Is Offered Bout With Williams

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Harry Markson, Madison Square Garden, offered former heavyweight champion Patterson a fight with Edie Williams.

Patterson and Williams are among the four heavyweights who have been invited to a meeting Thursday at the office of the New York State Athletic Commission to work out details for an elimination tournament to find a challenger for champion Cassius Clay.

The commission said it would be up to individual matchmakers to make the matches among the four.

The other two are Doug Jones of New York and Eddie Machen of San Francisco. All four have agreed to the tournament, and Jones, Patterson and Williams are expected to appear at the meeting Thursday.

FISH HABITAT improvement project installed last year on the sand fork of the Lost river is being inspected by Phillip Moffett, Mackay district ranger, left; Don Dunham, Ogden, Utah, fisheries biologist for the Intermountain region of the U.S. forest service, center, and Norman Hack, Challis, staffman in charge of range management. This project, along with one on Marsh creek, is fenced in to protect spawning beds and increase riparian vegetation which will improve rest areas and fish food.

Game Studies Continued in Challis Area

CHALLIS, March 26 — The Challis National forest undertook during 1963 studies to provide data on trout spawning beds and big game ranges.

A two-acre enclosure was constructed to furnish more scientific data on big game ranges.

Trend studies along with browse utilization transects were established and measured in cooperation with the Idaho fish and game department.

In the annual report the Challis forest said key game range was classified to show both the condition and trend of the vegetation and soil. The range condition and trend studies are particularly important to determine future management goals and correlate wildlife with other uses.

Studies also are continuing on the fish habitat improvement projects that were installed last year on the sand fork of the Lost river and Marsh creek.

These fenced plots will protect spawning beds and increase riparian vegetation which will aid to improve rest areas, fish food and streambank stabilization, the report noted.

83 Fillies Run For Triple Crown

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Castle Forbes and Tosmah top a list of 83 3-year-old fillies nominated Wednesday for the triple crown for fillies held annually under the auspices of the New York racing association.

The $50,000-added Acorn at one mile on May 16 at Aqueduct is the first race. The $75,000-added Mother Goose at 1 1/4 miles follows on June 1 and the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks at 1 1/4 miles winds up the competition June 13 at Aqueduct.

Casde Forbes was the top money-winning juvenile of 1963 with $27,690 and was voted the juvenile filly of 1963 by the TRF racing secretaries. Tosmah was voted best in the Triangle Publishing company poll.

A-State Thumps Wyoming 8-0

TEMPE, Ariz., March 26 (AP)—Lasty hitting and righthander Tom MacDougal's pitching gave Arizona state university an 8-0 baseball victory over Western Athletic conference rival Wyoming Wednesday.

First baseman Jan Kleinman rapped a triple and a single for the Sun Devils, driving in four runs, while shortstop Luis Lagunas hit a solo homerun.

MacDougal walked four and struckout nine as the Devils completed a sweep of the three game series.

Game Studies Continued in Challis Area

CHALLIS, March 26 — The Challis National forest undertook during 1963 studies to provide data on trout spawning beds and big game ranges.

A two-acre enclosure was constructed to furnish more scientific data on big game ranges.

Trend studies along with browse utilization transects were established and measured in cooperation with the Idaho fish and game department.

In the annual report the Challis forest said key game range was classified to show both the condition and trend of the vegetation and soil. The range condition and trend studies are particularly important to determine future management goals and correlate wildlife with other uses.

Studies also are continuing on the fish habitat improvement projects that were installed last year on the sand fork of the Lost river and Marsh creek.

These fenced plots will protect spawning beds and increase riparian vegetation which will aid to improve rest areas, fish food and streambank stabilization, the report noted.

83 Fillies Run For Triple Crown

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Castle Forbes and Tosmah top a list of 83 3-year-old fillies nominated Wednesday for the triple crown for fillies held annually under the auspices of the New York racing association.

The $50,000-added Acorn at one mile on May 16 at Aqueduct is the first race. The $75,000-added Mother Goose at 1 1/4 miles follows on June 1 and the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks at 1 1/4 miles winds up the competition June 13 at Aqueduct.

Casde Forbes was the top money-winning juvenile of 1963 with $27,690 and was voted the juvenile filly of 1963 by the TRF racing secretaries. Tosmah was voted best in the Triangle Publishing company poll.

A-State Thumps Wyoming 8-0

TEMPE, Ariz., March 26 (AP)—Lasty hitting and righthander Tom MacDougal's pitching gave Arizona state university an 8-0 baseball victory over Western Athletic conference rival Wyoming Wednesday.

First baseman Jan Kleinman rapped a triple and a single for the Sun Devils, driving in four runs, while shortstop Luis Lagunas hit a solo homerun.

MacDougal walked four and struckout nine as the Devils completed a sweep of the three game series.

Braves Pelt Koufax To Top Dodgers 8-3

Milwaukee and Minnesota freely pelted the National league's most valuable player and the American league's rookie of the year Wednesday in exhibition baseball games. The Braves jumped on Sandy Koufax en route to an 8-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers while the Twins battered Gary Peters in their 7-5 defeat of the Chicago White Sox.

Koufax, who now has been hit hard in two straight appearances, gave up three runs and six hits in three innings. The Braves Eddie Mathews rocked him for a single in the first inning and a run-producing triple in the third.

Peters, like Koufax a left-hander, also pitched the first three innings and was rocked for five runs, three of them in the first inning.

Gene Freese drove in four runs, including a game winning two-run homer, as Pittsburgh edged Baltimore 5-4. Freese's homer came in the sixth off Chuck Estrada. He had singled home a pair in the fourth. Ron Brand also homered for the Pirates in the sixth.

Houston nipped Detroit 4-3 on Walt Bond's two-run homer in the seventh. Frank Lary shut out the Colts until rookie John Paciorek singled home two runs in the sixth. Bond hit his four-bagger off Pete Craig.

Ron Santo drove in three runs in the Chicago Cubs' 12-4 triumph over San Francisco. Orlando Cepeda led the Giants with a home run, double and single.

The Philadelphia Phillies scored five unearned runs as they trounced the New York Mets 10-0. Two errors by Frank Thomas led to four of the runs. Art Mahaffey hurled five innings for the Phils, allowing three hits.

Hal Reniff balked hom a run in the ninth which gave Cincinnati a 2-1 decision over the New York Yankees. Cesar Tovar, who got to first on a fielder's choice and advanced to third on a stolen base and a throwing error, scored the winning run. The Yankees now have lost four straight.

The Los Angeles Angels blanked Cleveland 2-0 on rookie Dick Simpson's two-run homer in the sixth inning. The big blow came off Jim Grant.

Kansas City won its second game in 11 starts, trampling St. Louis 10-3. The Athletics sprayed three Card pitchers, including Ray Washburn and Curt Simmons, for 12 hits.

Seixas Named U. S. Tennis Team Captain

PHILADELPHIA, March 26 (AP)—Vic Seixas, a veteran of seven Davis cup teams and more than 60 cup matches, accepted the non-playing captaincy Wednesday of the U. S. tennis team.

A former Wimbledon and U. S. national champion, Seixas was extremely optimistic about a successful defense of the cup in the challenge round scheduled for Cleveland Sept. 25-27.

"We're at least as strong as last year," Seixas said of the team that won a 3-2 victory over Australia in Australia and returned the cup to Uncle Sam for the first time since 1938.

A securities salesman here, Seixas said his plans for the team were indefinite since he made up his mind only Wednesday to accept the post offered by James E. Dickey, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

"This is something I've always wanted to do," Seixas said, "but I have had to turn it down previously three or four times because I could not afford to take time off from work. When you don't work, you don't earn much money, you know."

Seixas explained that the fact the challenge round was in this country helped in his decision to accept the post. "I won't have to do much traveling or lose too much time from my job," he said.

Seixas said he has an open mind about the 1964 team personnel, although Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston, who combined to win the coveted cup last December, have to be considered the top two players.

Army Picks New Backfield Coach

WEST POINT, N. Y., March 26 (AP)—Jim Valok was named backfield coach for the Army football team Wednesday by head coach Paul Dietzel.

Valok, who played end for the University of Illinois in 1960, has been Army end coach for the last four years. He replaces Bill Doolittle, recently named head coach at Western Michigan.

Demos Say Johnson Can Hold South

WASHINGTON, March 26 (U)—Administration Democrats are piling up party unity evidence fortifying their belief that President Johnson can hold on to a substantial segment of the South in the November election.

These Democrats were cheered by a fresh exhibition of loyalty by Gov. Donald Russell, S. C. Russell told his state party's convention Wednesday he thinks no GOP presidential nominee could match Johnson "in experience, personal qualification and understanding of national and international problems."

What was to the point, also, was Russell's notation that South Carolina had supported Johnson in the 1960 convention and the governor's prediction that it would be behind him this year. Johnson's friends recently patched up a truce between quarreling Democrats in Texas that seemed likely to improve the chances of the national ticket there.

When the President spoke at a Florida party rally, Democrats of every description turned out. Some of them probably wouldn't have shown up for a speech by the late President John F. Kennedy because of their opposition to his civil rights position.

Gov. Carl Sanders, Ga., is on record with a prediction the South will rally behind Johnson. Kennedy had a great deal of trouble with Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett, and Barnett had launched an independent election movement designed to keep his and other Southern states' votes away from the national Democratic nominee.

But since Paul B. Johnson succeeded Barnett as governor there has been less talk about any such bolt. The President's friends are hopeful that the governor can see his way clear to avoid an open break.

Water Flow At Utah Dam Is Protested

By the Associated Press
Water began flowing through outlet gates at Glen Canyon dam today, apparently killing chances of scheduled power generation at the dam this summer and sparking strong protests from Utah leaders.

Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, who ordered the action Wednesday, said water from Lake Powell in southern Utah was needed downstream at Hoover dam to keep Lake Mead in Nevada at a 14.5-million acre-foot level, the minimum necessary for power generation.

Udall said the release was temporary and a final decision on releases would be made after water runoff conditions on the drought-ridden Colorado river watershed were evaluated during the next two months.

Gov. George A. Clyde called Udall's action releasing the water "premature," urged frequent reappraisals of the move and said the bureau of reclamation should find ways of replacing power from the Hoover dam generators.

"By doing this," Clyde said, "Lake Mead can be held at a specified level, power commitments met and storage retained in Lake Powell behind Glen Canyon dam."

Udall said in Washington, D.C., he had read that a group of private power companies had plans to supplant power generated at Hoover dam, but declared he has no proposal from the group.

Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R., Utah, indicated court action might be started to prevent the release of water from the dam. He said the release might empty the 3.1 million acre feet of water now in Lake Powell.

Humphrey Isn't Working for Vice President Job

WASHINGTON, March 26 (U)—Friends of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today he is making no moves to build up support to get on the ticket with President Johnson as the vice presidential candidate.

In fact, sources close to Humphrey said, the Minnesota Democrat has wired and written letters to groups in various parts of the country not to start or encourage any moves in his behalf.

Speculation has been rife, since the New Hampshire primary, on whom Johnson might pick as his running mate. The possibilities include Humphrey, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver and others.

Reuther Picked To Head UAW

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 26 (U)—The United Auto Workers Union voted Walter P. Reuther a 10th two-year term as president Wednesday, but told him, in effect, he can serve only 10 more years at most.

In a scene reminiscent of political conventions, cheering delegates paraded with placards in also reflecting Emil Mazey as secretary-treasurer and Leonard Woodcock and Pat Greenhouse as vice-presidents.

Red Talks End
March 26 (U)—Peking news reported Wednesday the Chinese Communist Party talks for 1964 with the Nationalist Government in Taiwan ended without success.

Fulbright's Speech Is Termed Appeasement

WASHINGTON, March 26 (U)—The Republican national chairman, William E. Miller, charges Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D. Ark., with promoting appeasement.

"The course Senator Fulbright advocates is the same road which Neville Chamberlain traveled in the 1930's," Miller said in a statement today. "It is a course which Republicans will oppose now as they have opposed it in the past."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, called on the Johnson administration and the nation Wednesday to abandon "old myths" and face up to "the new realities of our time."

He called for prompt revision of the Panama Canal treaty and a new attitude toward Cuba, viewing the Communist Prime Minister Fidel Castro as a nuisance but not a grave threat to the United States.

Miller did not use the word appeasement in his attack on Fulbright. But there could be no other implication to the reference to Chamberlain, the pre-World War II British prime minister, who acceded to Germany's territorial demands on its neighbors.

Miller said Fulbright's remarks of the Panama Canal treaty and a new attitude toward Cuba, viewing the Communist Prime Minister Fidel Castro as a nuisance but not a grave threat to the United States.

Italy Launches Rocket Capsule

ROME, March 26 (U)—Italy successfully launched a rocket-powered capsule from a platform in the Indian ocean on Wednesday.

It was the first time a sub-orbital satellite had been fired from a platform at sea. The capsule shot was a preliminary to Italy's effort to put the San Marco space probe satellite into orbit around the equator from the same platform.

The platform is near the equator six miles off the Kenya coast.

Tourists Urged By Pope to Become Pilgrims

VATICAN CITY, March 26 (U)—Pope Paul VI, addressing himself to tourists who flock by the thousands to Rome for Easter, Wednesday urged them to become devout pilgrims, too.

Speaking in his weekly general audience, Pope Paul remarked that Easter was approaching.

"We would like to urge you all to take profit of your presence in Rome during this highest Christian holiday and penetrate even better into the spirit of this great liturgical celebration and participate even more deeply to the sentiments, the rites and the mystery of our redemption."

1964 Is Year of Decision for State Economy

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
BOISE, March 25 (UP)—Decisions being made in the nation's capital and other places far removed from Idaho could have a profound effect on this year's economic picture.

State's basic economy—Washington, D. C., and reports from the state's congressional delegation indicate agriculture, mining and lumbering have vital importance in pending bills and executive actions.

There is legislation to curb foreign meat imports, put acreage controls on potatoes, raise wheat subsidies and increase the market for domestic beet sugar. There are proposals to reduce tariffs and import quotas on lead, zinc and lumber.

In addition, there is a chance that the House of Representatives, which is currently in session, will pass legislation to curb imports of foreign meat.

Fast-building right now is the controversy over foreign meat imports. At present, foreign producers—mostly in New Zealand and Australia—supply more than 11 per cent of the total meat consumed in the United States.

It is cheaper than domestically-produced meat and its competition in U. S. markets is pinching domestic producers.

Sen. Len Jordan says some feeders in Idaho lost as much as $50 a head in feeding operations last year.

To help offset the threat to the domestic market, Montana Sen. Mike Mansfield has introduced legislation to curb imports.

Gov. Robert E. Smylie feels the bill is not strong enough but has endorsed it "if it has possibility of passage and approval."

Also of importance is pending legislation on potato acreage controls. Most Idaho producers are reported opposed to this but the state's congressional delegation faces the possibility of being outvoted by other states that want it.

A new sugar beet bill was introduced in the Congress on March 19. This would increase the domestic sugar beet quota by 750,000 tons—taking that amount away from the global quota.

"Unless the basic sugar quota is increased, U. S. sugar beet growers will be faced with a 40 per cent cut in acreage," Jordan said recently. "Equally alarming is the fact that the authorization of new sugar beet factories would no longer be possible."

While the sugar beet bill appears to be one necessary for Idaho, Jordan and Sen. Frank Church believe the senate-amended wheat-cotton bill is not.

They feel increased subsidies to wheat producers in other states would hurt gem state wheat growers.

In the executive branch of government there is a decision pending that could affect the future of traditional markets for Idaho's Magic Valley. After considerable prodding from Rep. Ralph Hardin and others, the agriculture department agreed to include

Idaho pinto beans in school lunch programs.

Still unanswered at this writing, however, is the question of how much.

The state's lead-zinc producing industry, now just recovering from a prolonged slump, is confronted with a new threat in the form of reduced import quotas and tariffs. The federal tariff commission is planning public hearings to determine whether some of the present tariffs and quotas could be terminated or at least reduced.

Lowering of the tariff barrier on softwood plywood also is under consideration. It is reported in the list for discussion at the general agreement and tariff and trade negotiations in Geneva. Some feel a cut in this tariff not only would burden the whole industry but would have a serious effect on new plywood mills, such as the one being started in St. Maries.

Threat of a cutback in Idaho's airline service resulted from federal regulations requiring commercial airlines to generate an average of five passengers daily. Chairman Alan S. Boyd of the civil aeronautics board says that in 1963 West Coast had four Idaho stops failing to meet that criterion.

While the chance for solving some of these problems is not all black it is clear that 1964 is going to be a year of decision for Idaho's economy. And all the decisions will be made at the federal level.

Crowd Scrambles For 'Cartwheels'

WASHINGTON, March 25 (UP)—The treasury sold silver dollars by the $1,000 bagful for two hours Wednesday, but hundreds of disgruntled would-be purchasers were left waiting.

Guards and secret service men had to lock arms and physically force out some of those who insisted on blocking a corridor after the sales were halted at 11 a.m. Some complained of disorders among those who waited in line outside the building.

A developing shortage of the big coins in treasury stocks has brought a run on them.

3 Men Involved in Gay Mine Brawl Die Violent Deaths

POCATELLO, March 26 (UP)—On May 28, 1963, violence broke out on the dirt road to the J. R. Simplot company's Gay phosphate mine 20 miles east of Fort Hall.

Subsequently, 17 men, mostly Indians, were charged with inciting the violence and participating in it. The case was later handled in federal court.

Of the original 17, three of the men have since died violent deaths.

The first was Roland Osborne, 28, who was shot and killed in his trailer home on the Fort Hall town site last December 8. Charges of second-degree murder were filed against his father-in-law, Lewis Meeks.

The second was 50-year-old Leland (Pinto) Edmo, killed along with four other persons when his car was struck by a speeding freight train near Blackfoot March 8.

Last Friday 20-year-old Lawrence Wadsworth was killed along with two Pocatello school teachers in a two-car accident south of Fort Hall.

Still a fourth man accused of participating in the riot, Allen (Swede) Edmo, Leland's son, was seriously wounded last June 30 when he was shot during a fracas at a Chubbuck tavern.

The men were given fines and suspended jail terms as a result of their actions in the mine trouble.

Leader Hopes For Health Bill Okay

WASHINGTON, March 26 (UP)—President Johnson described Wednesday as very hopeful that congress will act this year on legislation to provide health care for the elderly, financed through social security.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., the assistant senate Democratic leader, said in an interview that Johnson had canvassed the prospects for the program at a White House meeting with Democratic congressional chiefs Tuesday.

"The President is very interested in getting action on this matter and intends to press for it," Humphrey said.

Johnson told the United Automobile Workers convention in Atlantic City, N. J., Monday: "We are going to pass a medical assistance bill for the aged no matter how many months it takes. The sensible and prudent and lasting way to do this is through the social security system."

This pledge was open to at least two different interpretations. Most members of congress seemed to think the President was conceding that "many months" stretching into next year—would be required to get a bill passed. Others thought he meant he wanted congress to stay on this year to get the job done.

Humphrey sided with the latter interpretation. He said he thinks there is a good possibility that some arrangements can be made to get house action on the health care issue.

"I understand some changes in the social security laws are going to be considered," he said. "That would be a logical place to include this program."

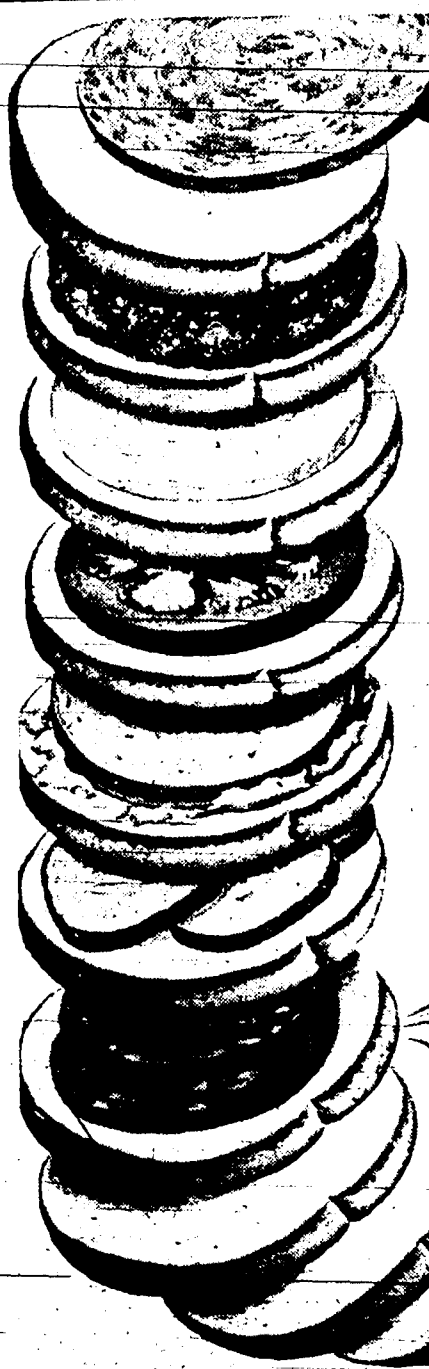

The late President John F. Kennedy tried to move the proposal through the house last year but encountered formidable opposition from Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, O. Ark., of the ways and means committee. Kennedy had been assured of the votes for senate passage if the house acted.

There has been no outward sign that Mills has softened his opposition to the program. If Mills remains strongly opposed to it, Johnson will need all of his political persuasiveness to get the committee to override the chairman.

Unless he can get Mills to go along, politicians think Johnson would accomplish a near-miracle by getting any bill passed before the November election.

Neilan Raps Political Immorality

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 26 (AP)—The president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, deploring political immorality, predicted last night that the 1964 presidential campaign will be the most expensive example of vote-buying in America.

"Expense is no object to the politicians because it's their money they're playing with," said Edwin P. Neilan, the chamber president. "The principal complaint of the out's is that the other fellow has the key to the treasury."

Neilan's speech before the New Brunswick-Raritan Valley Chamber of Commerce was his latest attack on what he calls the use of tax-paid subsidies for political gain.

The election campaign, he predicted, will see federal bureaucrats... offering multi-million-dollar bribes to communities, to individuals, to special interest groups, to keep themselves in office.

In an obvious reference to President Johnson's promised war on poverty, Neilan pictured "political fifth-columnists" at $100 and $1,000-a-plate dinners weeping crocodile tears over the poor and proclaiming the discovery of magical formulas for the cure of poverty.

Neilan said he was not criticizing either political party as "immorally doesn't wear a party label," he said. "The same malpractice, the same misuse of public funds, the same abuse of public trust have occurred under Republican and Democratic administrations."

Neilan said it has gotten so bad that "few voters even expect a politician to put the national interest ahead of himself and his party."

U. S. Withdrawal From Viet Nam Could Lead to Disaster

By ROBERT EINHORN
MANILA, March 26 (AP)—Withdrawal of American forces from South Viet Nam "could lead to disaster," President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines said Wednesday.

But he cautioned the United States against intervention in Asian affairs and said the United States should be satisfied with its present role.

Macapagal made the statements at a private audience with Gen. W. G. B. Macapagal, manager of The Associated Press, who is on a tour of Asia.

Describing the Vietnamese war, where 15,000 Americans are involved in the Vietnamese fight to wipe out communist-backed Viet Cong guerrillas, Macapagal said he believed withdrawal of Americans or neutralization of Viet Nam would affect all the countries in the area.

"It could lead to a disaster, especially for those countries near Viet Nam," he said.

Macapagal was the third Asian leader who has told Galtagher in the last 10 days that the United States should not withdraw its military units in South Viet Nam.

Until the war there is won, Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan and Gen. Nguyen Khanh of South Viet Nam expressed similar views.

Asked what the United States should do in Asia, Macapagal smiled, his brown eyes twinkling, and said:

"I believe to walk, how is it to you, where angels fear to tread, there should be more protection not intention of American aid. It should be made clear that aid will not be used as a club, a weapon—to constrain the secondary country to get up the first country to get things done. Now is the time to tighten our belts, stride our long legs (strongly) and lead down to victory."

Macapagal did not use the word "colonialism," but it was clear that his caution was directed toward just that image.

The decision should be made on the type of aid needed," he said. "The effect should be aimed at coming out naturally."

The 63-year-old president was moved and in the traditional white barong shirt of the Philippines. He moved about in his swivel chair and gestured energetically to emphasize points.

Countries which need aid "are in a rebellious mood because they are in a mood of rebellion and they are in that mood," he observed.

He said the United States should not expect Indonesia or Malaysia, both much younger countries, to react in the same manner. "Internationally speaking," he said, "the Philippines is now 18 years old and the United States should be around before the eyes of the world be commented. 'We are making democracy work. Democracy is here.'"

SEATO, the Southeast Asia treaty organization, he said, is an expansion among other Asian nations. SEATO will hold its annual meeting in Manila next month.

Referring to the informal association of Malaysia, Philippines and Indonesia, known as Manila, he said "all these arrangements are coming along for cooperation among all countries in the area. The Philippines is now 18 years old and the United States should be around before the eyes of the world be commented. 'We are making democracy work. Democracy is here.'"

Freeway in Redwoods Is Controversy

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26 (AP)—That's the question posed by California conservationists: "Should we build a freeway through the heart of the state's famed redwoods country north of here?"

The freeway proposal is the latest in a series of crises that have occupied the San Francisco-based Save-the-Redwoods League since its formation in 1918.

Only 200,000 acres of virgin redwood forests remain. And of this total, only 50,000 acres are in state or national parks.

There are few objects on earth that appear more impervious to destruction than redwood trees.

They live as long as 4,000 years, attain diameters of more than 20 feet and grow 30 feet high.

Indestructibility is not really one of their characteristics, however.

Heretofore, private logging operations have accounted for the demise of most of the redwoods. The wood of the coast redwood is highly prized for its durability and attractive texture.

But another characteristic of redwoods—self-recreation of their own so-called "life zones"—opens them to damage from freeways.

Root structures direct small streams within the forests and form basins to retain water vital to the trees.

Stunningly diverse shaded groves to sunlight, create wind tunnels and otherwise disturb the "life zone."

Such conditions spell quick annihilation for redwoods, according to state Park Commissioner Margaret Owens, a supporter of the Save-the-Redwoods League's battle.

The league hopes to get nationwide support in its drive to force the state to re-route the proposed freeway and thus save the redwoods.

Its theme: that devastation of the forest is a "loss of life zone."

Throughout the growing controversy, the state's position has been that it must select the most feasible—less costly—routes for freeways. As guardian of taxpayer's dollars, officials say, they have no alternative but to get the job done at the lowest possible cost.

The league asserts that freeways, while necessary, need not be built at the expense of the redwoods.

U. S. Social Security Plan Probed

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—For the first time in 10 years, officials are taking a long, hard look at social security. One question they are asking: Can a retired person live on a month's pay?

That, for $1,694 a year, is the current maximum retirement payment under social security. It is a sum that administrators would otherwise classify at the "poverty" level of income.

Critics of the system complain it's not enough. Since 1960, when the current maximum was set, the cost of living has risen six per cent.

A 14-member advisory council on social security is now meeting behind closed doors to consider the plan to fix the national welfare system in the most comprehensive survey of its kind since 1950.

The council will issue its recommendations next January.

It is almost certain to ask for a boost in retirement payments next year, if congress does not approve them.

The council also is expected to have something to say about the administration's plan to fix the hospital and nursing care for the elderly through expanded social security assessments.

There has been considerable grumbling in and out of congress about the solvency of the social security system. This is sure to have a high priority in the council discussions.

Federal officials claim the overall system is financially sound, but they concede the disability trust fund is paying out more than it is receiving.

The disability trust fund is being made up by income from the second fund which pays for old age and survivors benefits. The income from this fund is increasing faster than expenditures.

Both funds are supported by payroll taxes, presently running at a rate of 4 1/2 per cent of a worker's wages up to $4,800 a year. The employer makes a matching contribution.

The first $4,800 of a person's annual income also is the maximum that can be used for figuring retirement benefits. One technique for raising the monthly pension would be to raise this limit.

Present law permits a person drawing social security to earn additional money outside the system. But the Social Security Administration is now considering a check being out, social security experts generally believe this group is the best off because of the extra money coming in. The advisory council may recommend some liberalization now, but it is believed the need is more pressing among other groups.

Wanted Man On FBI List Second Time

WASHINGTON, March 26 (AP)—A man-about-town who once used a press card as a ruse to escape from prison has been placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted fugitives. An ex-convict, this is the second time his name has been on the list.

This second-time-around criminal is a 34-year-old man who on social security is now meeting behind closed doors to consider the plan to fix the national welfare system in the most comprehensive survey of its kind since 1950.

The council will issue its recommendations next January.

Phony School Warning Is Issued Here

With high school graduation approaching, students are beginning to receive advertising from various types of schools and training institutions which may or may not be legitimate. The March issue of the National Better Business Bureau bulletin reports on indictments by the United States district court against some schools.

"Generally speaking, we will have information on the reliability of correspondence schools, if school officials do not, and will be glad to advise students on these records," Orange said.

Every year, some students who do not wish to enter a regular academic institution, but do wish to better their chances by some specialized training, fall victim to some of the illegitimate correspondence schools.

"This does not mean that all correspondence schools fall in this category," Orange added. "There are many very excellent schools, offering recognized courses in all latest practical correspondence teaching, and recognized by industry as providing excellent training."

Persons considering correspondence schools are urged to check with the Chamber of Commerce regarding regulations of schools before spending any money.

"It is extremely difficult to break a contract or get a refund once the money is in the hands of a school representative," Orange stated.

And he concluded with the Better Business Bureau motto, which could save people millions of dollars annually, "Investigate before you invest."

Man Avoids Jury Duty by Quoting Bible

HOUSTON, Tex., March 26 (AP)—A newspaper clipping and a Bible verse got a newlywed excused from a week's jury duty Tuesday.

Clyde Nathan Williams, 31, approached Judge Arnold Erickson and handed him two pieces of paper.

One was a news clipping telling of his marriage to Miss Glenda Cone March 7.

On the other piece of paper, Williams had copied the fifth verse of the 24th chapter of Deuteronomy:

"When a man hath taken a wife, he shall not go out to war, neither shall he be charged with any business; but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken."

The judge checked the passage in the Bible he keeps on his desk and sent Williams home.
